In the Farming West
Lady Skyline's Eggs

What Are Our Standards

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Dec. 7. —Bitter weather in this Western country, where trains climb over the continent's rocky backbone. A blizzard sweeping out of the North through Montana, Wyoming, northern and eastern Colorado wiped out memories of that "unseasonable hot weather." Fourteen degrees below zero is the record in some places. Guards examining car wheels at Las Vegas this morning knocked great masses of ice from the trucks. This is printed to please dwellers in California, Florida and along the Gulf coast. When we are warm it is pleasant to hear of cold weather. Cotton Mather said bliss in Heaven would be greatly increased by looking down at the torment of friends and acquaintances in Hell.

Out here men are interested in the earth. One man in the smoking room tells another: "When you plant radishes below the frost line they will keep coming up for three years. I planted turnips below frost and they came up for seven years." That interested the other man.

Another shows his neighbors pictures of modern machinery used on Zuckerman brothers' potato farm in San Joaquin County, California. One man drives a huge machine and gathers three rows of potatoes at once. One man in a small tractor pulls a wagon beside the potato digger, which delivered potatoes into the wagon as they are dug and gathered. Two men do the work of 60 working men under the old methods. The Zuckermans gather crops economically and also raise gigantic crops, holding the world's record for potato production—492½ sacks of potatoes from one acre. Eight acres last year yielded 427,171 pounds of potatoes.

Such farming will do more "to help the farmer" than anything that McNary and Haugen can invent. When farmers apply to farming methods what Ford applies in his factory, they will get rich.

Even editors are farm enthusiasts here. F. G. Bonfils, whose Denver Post covers many States, got more excited about one hen than he ever did about his newspapers. The hen, Lady Skyline, named in honor of Colorado's high altitude, laid 235 eggs in 235 days. Bonfils recently sent twelve of her eggs to President Coolidge, insured the hen's life for $1,000, and brought her to Denver, "so the people

THREE "MAROONED" DEER HUNTERS RETURN HOME

Springfield, Dec. 8.—Three deer hunters, marooned for three days and three nights on Tolland Mountain, returned home today suffering from the effects of hunger and cold. The men, Charles Cooper of West Springfield, Howard Speare of Longmeadow and Herman Provost of this city, started out Sunday. The sleet storm bent trees over so that the roads off the mountain were blocked, and it was last night before they could drive through, fog and rain having washed away much of the snow and ice. While prevented from leaving their hunting ground, they did succeed in reaching the fire-watch tower on the top of the mountain and there telephoned home that they were safe.

$1,200,000 U. S. SENATE TAMPERING PLOT LAID TO CALLES AND ELIAS

By JOHN PAGE

Copyright, 1927, by the Washington Herald

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—A Mexican Government attempt to tamper with a United States Senator is shown by the Boston Evening American and associated Hearst papers in the publication today of secret official correspondence between the President of Mexico, its Foreign Minister and its Financial Agent in New York.

Arturo M. Elias, the Mexican Financial Agent in New York, in a letter written July 1, 1926, to President Calles, his half-brother, referred to the Senator by name, and urged Calles to "issue the necessary orders for the transfer of funds to this Agency in the

NICHOLS ASKS $100,000 FOR CITY SALARY RAISES

Approximately $100,000 in salary increases for workers in the various city departments is provided for in Mayor Nichols' City of Boston budget now being whipped into shape.

The amount is even less than the sum for this purpose provided at the beginning of the present fiscal year which ends December 31, and the increase this year was one of the smallest on record.

About $75,000 of the $100,000 prospective salary increases for department workers will provide for automatic $100 increases given under the step-rate system, by which city employes proceed from the

REMUS SHEDS TEARS IN GREETING DARROW

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 8.—Clarence Darrow, famous Chicago attorney, came into Criminal Court today to help his old friend, George Remus, on trial for the murder of his wife, Imogene, escape the electric chair.

Remus wept when Darrow visited him in his cell shortly before court was called to order. Remus threw his arms around Darrow and cried: "My friend, this is wonderful of you. Wonderful! I can never repay."

Darrow said he came to testify to Remus' good character.

Promptly at ten o'clock Remus, accompanied by his daughter, Romola, came into the crowded courtroom. Every seat was taken.

"I'm nervous but otherwise I feel pretty well," said Remus, whose emotional outburst had caused the abrupt halting of the trial. "I hope I do not discommode the judge or the jury any more."

REACH VERDICT OF MANSLAUGHTER

(BULLETIN)

Mays Landing, N. J., Dec. 8.—Mrs. Margaret Lilliendahl and Willis Beach, the rural Romeo, were found guilty of "voluntary manslaughter" in connection with the murder of the woman's elderly husband, Dr. William Lilliendahl.

The verdict was brought in after the mixed jury of five women and seven men had wrangled for hours, having been locked up much of that time by Judge Campbell.

At 2:15 this afternoon the jury, still in session, sent out for lunch. Judge Campbell ruled earlier in the day that if a verdict was not reached by 1:30 p. m. today he would order the jury dismissed.

12 DEATHS AS FURIOUS GALES LASH OVER U. S.

At least twelve lives were claimed today as blizzards, zero temperatures, gales, high tides or rain deluge gripped the entire country in a standing storm, running property damage into seven figures.

All the deaths were reported from the Midwest, Northwest and Southwest.

Originating in the Northwest and Canada, the storm extended over the country with a different brand of weather for each section and extremely cold weather in its wake that is expected to reach southern New England by tonight.

Sub zero temperatures were reported in Wyoming, the Dakotas,

Calles Asks Lindy to Fly From New York to Mexico

CARDINAL DENOUNCES MEXICAN ATROCITIES

Horrors perpetrated by an "unspeakable demagogue" in Mexico caused the only sadness to overshadow and otherwise perfectly happy birthday for William Cardinal O'Connell, he revealed today on his sixty-eighth anniversary.

"How can any American be complacent and enjoy the great happiness and fortune of our country while at our very door is a persecution which reminds one of the most brutal and barbarous in history," he declared.

"We read with horror of the atrocities that pagan emperors inflicted on the early Christians, and yet we seem unmoved by the horrors perpetrated by an unspeakable demagogue.

"I am not a politician. I am speaking as an American citizen who must deplore the riotous and blasphemous conduct at the door of our country without a single protest.

"It is wellish hunting down of innocent bystanders, whose only cry is their determination to serve God. What is the cause of all this silence?"

In accordance with his daily custom, His Eminence was up at 7 o'clock and at 10 he celebrated mass at the Holy Cross Cathedral, assisted by the following priests: Rev. Nell Cronin, Rev. George P. O'Conor, Rev. Robert P. Barry, Rev. William A. Darcy, Rev. Harry M. O'Connor and Rev. John B. Wall.

AUTO, THEATRE TAX CUT WOULD COST $41,000,000

Washington, Dec. 8 (A.P.)—The new revenue bill will call for a total cut in taxes of $225,775,000 instead of $266,000,000 heretofore estimated by members of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Chairman Green formally advised the House of the estimate today in a report on the measure. The new estimate is only $1,725,000 above the maximum of $223,000,000 recommended by Secretary Mellon. The chairman said requests for reductions aggregating more than $600,000,000 had been received.

His report estimated the total reduction would be made up of specific cuts in tax rates as follows:

Reduction in the rate on corporation income tax, 1½ to 1¼ per cent., $[illegible] revenue of $166,600,

MEXICO TRIED TO TAMPER WITH UNITED STATES SENATE

HIGH TIDE FLOODS STREETS

Minnesota, Iowa, Kansas and other western States. In Montana the mercury hit 13 below zero. Light snowfalls accompanied the frigid blast.

Heavy snow was reported in Minnesota and Kansas.

Minneapolis called it the worst blizzard in four years; several South Dakota schools were closed, shipping on the Great Lakes was endangered by gales that reached 100 miles an hour, telephone poles were uprooted and wires torn down, ships were adrift.

NEW ENGLAND HIT.

Chicago experienced a drop of 40 degrees in temperature within five hours, and icy pavements caused death to three persons and serious injury of several others.

Rising waters of the Niagara River caused the inundation of several homes in Niagara Falls, N. Y.; Port Colborne, Ont., reported the worst storm in its history with lake waters lashing fifteen feet above normal in a 100-mile gale, causing thousands of dollars damage.

New England received a vivid reminder of its recent flood when heavy rains in Vermont and New Hampshire caused his flooding of several homes and highways.

Citrus growers in California were standing by with smudge pots to save their crops.

Flood and High Tide Submerge Hub Roads

Streets of Boston, railroad tracks in shore sections and flood-sick areas in Vermont, today felt the brunt of the heavy rain, combined with high tide, gale and melting snow, causing thousands of dollars in damage to New England.

Long wharf, Atlantic avenue, resembled a miniature lake as trucks and teams piled a hazardous way to the steamships tied up there. The water was more than a foot deep. In many places boards were torn up, making dangerous passage. Other waterfront streets suffered in a like manner.

High tide, threatening trenches on the Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn system, forced a complete suspension of service when officials decided it was dangerous to chance the passage of trains over them.

Streets between Winthrop Shore Drive and Shirley street were completely covered and vehicular traffic was suspended for more than two hours.

On the Lynn-Revere turnpike water lapped at the guard rails from Lynn marsh. Several workers' shacks were nearly covered near the roadway.

LONG WHARF UNDER WATER.

The Boston & Maine railroad tracks and the Narrow Gauge tracks over Pines River, Saugus, were nearly covered, trains sending spray as they passed.

In the Point of Pines section, new construction on a sea wall was demolished as the rising tide pounded against it.

Flood-sick Vermont, struggling out of the chaos started five weeks ago, was hard hit again as new freshets broke out in Barre, Montpelier and Northfield.

At Barre, a clogged brook sent water into the streets and cellars in the northern section. Two schools were closed.

NORTHFIELD FLOODED.

A footbridge at Northfield broke away, erected in place of the Grout bridge. Water filled the streets in most every section of the city.

At Montpelier water again seeped into cellars of stores and dwellings.

Dynamite was used to scatter driftwood piled up against a temporary bridge, threatening its destruction. The water had risen nine feet as that point.

Streets of Bangor, Me., resembled rivers as an eight-inch blanket of snow melted with the warm rain. The Penobscot River, threatening to overflow from the ice jams, took on a threatening aspect, as the ice melted and the rain fell. Fear of a heavy cold snap is felt in the vicinity.

HIGH TIDE AT NEW HAVEN.

Large areas along the New Haven (Ct.) waterfront were completely submerged as the tide rode two feet higher than normal. Trolley service was suspended, boats and small shanties were carried away and the heavy surf threatened the Summer cottages. At Cosy Beach, residents were marooned by the tide. The Morris Cove seawall was well under water and trees near it were washed away.

The Dartmouth College highway at Bath, near Concord, N. H., was under water as streams swelled from the rain. Reconstruction work on a bridge there had to be halted.

The Portland, Me., waterfront suffered more than for years when the highest tide on record submerged wharves. Sidewalks outside the Portland dock were covered before high tide and a good part of the street in the middle of Central wharf was covered. A forty-mile-an hour wind blew storm warnings to shreds.

At Westfield, N. Y., three fishing vessels were sunk at a loss of $10,000 and drying racks and pontoons swept away in the worst gale for 25 years. Water was buried over roadways.

FAIR WEATHER IN SIGHT.

Several factories on Tonawanda Island, N. Y., were forced to shut down owing to the Niagara flood waters. The 45-mile gale uprooted trees and power poles, completely disrupting electrical service.

Further south, at Kane, Pa., cyclonic winds uprooted trees, smashed windows and damaged dozens of roofs. Telephone lines were down and lower lines damaged.

With the advent of cooler, fair weather and a shift in the wind, the weather man promised abatement. Temperatures are due for a drop, he said, with winds shifting from the west.

Chicago Hit by Blizzard; Ten Deaths in West

Chicago, Dec. 8 (I.N.S.).—Following a day of Spring-like temperatures, Chicagoans went to work this morning in a biting northwest blizzard that shot the mercury down to near zero.

The cold wave is general over the Middlewest, temperatures in some sections being reported as low as 32 below zero. Ten deaths have been attributed to the storm.

At Culbreton, Mont., the mercury touched 53 degrees below zero; at Bismarck, N. D., Denver and Cheyenne 12 below; at Havre, Mont., 32 below, and at Moorehead, Minn., 14 below.

Miss Phylis Jacobson of Coburn street, East Dedham, who was seated in an auto in Dedham with Oscar A. Aylward, 20, when the youth accidentally shot himself. She gave the alarm to his family, but he was dead before they could get him to a hospital. She has been exonerated of any blame in connection with the tragedy.

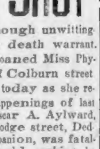
GIRL TELLS HOW YOUTH WAS SHOT

"I really, though unwittingly, signed his death warrant, I suppose," moaned Miss Phyllis Jacobson of Colburn street East Dedham, today as she reviewed the happenings of last night when Oscar A. Aylward, 22, of Green Lodge street, Dedham, her companion, was fatally shot by an old carbine he had in his auto.

"Oscar chased some boys who were bothering us," she said, "firing one shot in the air.

"Then he returned to our parked car and started after them again when I pleaded with him not to bother.

"He threw the weapon in back it ran accidentally discharged and with a word he crumpled in my arms. The humane of the gun had hit the door casing."



Oscar Aylward

Dedham police called the shooting accidental, though District Attorney Winfield M. Wilbur ordered an autopsy, and State Detective Michael Fleming took for examination the old carbine. He found the hammer broken.

MAN KILLED ON NARROW GAUGE

A Narrow Guage train today ground to death an unidentified man, about forty years old, believed to be a workman. He was trapped on the trestle bridge between the Winthrop Beach and Thornton stations.

He is believed to have been repairing damage done by the high tides which, for a time today, forced a suspension of Narrow Guage service.

MAY DROP UNITED FRUIT FROM "RADIO HEARING"

Decision today by counsel for the United Fruit Company that it has unloaded all its stock in the Radio Corporation of America influenced Examiner William C. Reves, representing the Federal Trade Commission, to take under advisement dropping the fruit concern as a respondent in the Federal Court "radio hearing."

Today was the second day of the hearing on charges that the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, the Westinginghouse Electric Company, the General Electric Company, and others, have combined to sale of radio apparatus.

COOLIDGE AND CALLES MAY ARRANGE TO MEET

Mexico City, Dec. 8 (I.N.S.).—Reports are current in diplomatic circles today that efforts are being made to arrange a meeting between President Coolidge and President Calles. It is said an invitation may be issued to President Coolidge to come to Vera Cruz or Tampico after he attends the Pan-American Congress in Havana in January.

ordinary manner and as quickly as possible."

The "funds" requested by Senor Elias have been referred to repeatedly in Mexican correspondence previously published by The Boston Evening American. The sum wanted was $1,200,000.

Senor Financial Agent Elias in this letter also named the man who, according to Elias, was acting as "intermediary agent" in "this matter." The alleged go-between named by Elias is a prominent American lawyer.

Elias wrote that he had informed this alleged go-between that he might inform his purported principal, the Senator that the "business" had been approved, and that it only remained for the funds to be transferred from Mexico City to a New York bank, "in order to dispose of them in a form which will raise no suspicion."

Elias, in closing, referred to a "memorandum of Senator ——," which he said was in the possession of Calles, and inquired whether the Mexican Executive wished to make any observations on the memorandum. Elias expressed the desire to be informed of such observations, if any, before delivering the funds to the alleged intermediary agent.

"Otherwise," Elias stated, "I shall place them (the funds) at his disposition without adding a single word."

LETTER QUOTED

A copy of this remarkable letter is held by the Hearst papers and is published today. The letter, together with other documents published in these articles, will be submitted to Congress for an investigation and such action as that body may see fit to take. For that reason the names of the high personages mentioned in the and other official Mexican documents are deleted.

A translation of the Elias letter follows:

New York, N. Y.

Senor Plutarco Elias Calles,
President of the Republic,
Mexico, D. F.
My dear brother:

This letter, perfectly sealed, will be delivered by Robert Haberman, who is going to Mexico City on a special mission. Haberman is absolutely ignorant of the contents of the letter, as I have taken precautions that this affair be carried forward with all possible reserve.

I have just returned from Washington, where I conferred at length with Tellez (Mexican Ambassador to the United States) over the affair of Senator ——. I was able to convince him, after no few difficulties, of the necessity which exists of taking measures of this nature for our protection, outside of diplomatic channels. Today I had also a conference with Mr. ——, intermediary agent in this matter, informing him that he might communicate to his principal that the business has been approved, and that it only remains for the funds to be transferred from Mexico to a bank in this city (New York), in order to dispose of them in a form which will raise no suspicion.

Now that the greatest difficulties in this matter have been conquered, I hope that you will issue the necessary orders for the transfer of funds to this Agency in the ordinary manner, and as quickly as possible. If there are some observations you may care to make to the memorandum of Senator —— which you have, communicate them to me in order that I may inform —— before delivering the funds, otherwise I shall place them at his disposition without adding a single word.

As always, your brother who loves you.

AME/EL.

The foregoing is a translation from a carbon copy of a letter dictated by Arturo M. Elias, and, unlike the majority of Mexican documents used in this series, is not an original. The signature of Senor Elias, therefore, does not appear, but only his initials, as typed by the stenographer.

In this letter to President Calles, Elias again complained of the attitude of the Mexican Ambassador to the United States, Manuel C. Tellez. He wrote that he had been able to convince Tellez of the necessity of the proposed arrangement with Senator ——, "after no few difficulties." Tellez, as explained in yesterday's article, had opposed the project on the ground that it might result in injuring diplomatic relations between Mexico and the United States, instead of bettering them.

The Mexican Government's attempt to tamper with Senator ——, came at a time—the Summer of 1926—when President Calles was busiest in his efforts to injure the United States in Nicaragua and elsewhere.

The American State Department and Mexican Foreign Office were conducting at the same time a diplomatic dispute over the radical land and oil legislation which the Calles Administration had just adopted. Calles and his principal advisers were much worked up about American objections to their pet laws, but the depth of their resentment was not even dimly suspected until, some months later, the State Department obtained "conclusive evidence" that Mexico was behind the anti-American revolution in Nicaragua.

Even then, there were few who could have believed that Mexico would go to the extent of pledging the Liberal Government it was seeking to install in Nicaragua to

Disclosures in Mexico Expose Today

Secret documents exchanged between Mexican officials in Mexico City and New York, and published for the first time by the Boston Evening American and associated Hearst newspapers today, reveal that an attempt was made to tamper with a high official of the United States government—a member of the Senate.

This man is mentioned by name in the original documents now in the possession of the Hearst papers which called for the delivery of $1,200,000 to the financial agent in New York for transfer to an intermediary purported to represent this Senator.

WOMAN SEIZED BY COMA AFTER BOOZE PARTY

Following several hours spent in questioning five Malden men and other investigation, police today announced they had a partial solution of the mystery surrounding Mrs Leah Hedtler of St. Botolph street, Back Bay who is in a coma and near death at Massachusetts General Hospital.

The five men were drinking with Mrs Hedtler on the night she was injured, police say. She was found by a policeman near the Lincoln School, Malden, and he left her on the school steps, thinking she would recover sufficiently to go home.

When he returned later she was not on the steps, but he found her inside the building at the foot of a flight of stairs, semi-conscious from injuries. Having previously learned from her the names of some of her companions, he found them and forced them to take her to the hospital.

This course of action was followed by the policeman, whose name Malden authorities are withholding, because he knew relatives of Mrs Hedtler. At the hospital the men who took the injured woman there told an evasive story that aroused suspicions of the supervisor, Alexander Connor, and caused an inquiry by Boston police.

One of the five Malden men, Kenneth A. Poole of Linden avenue, was taken to Cambridge for questioning there in another connection. Police are still investigating the "party" that all admitted engaging in with Mrs. Hedtler.

Poole is said to have struck a man with his automobile on Prison Point bridge, between Charlestown and Cambridge, last night.

GIRL TODAY ALL SYNTHETIC, SAYS LOW

By CHARLES A. SMITH.

London, Dec. 8.—The flapper of today is a walking chemical experiment—a synthetic substitute for nature—in the opinion of Prof. A. M. Low, British scientist and inventor.

Prof. Low said today his fellow scientists fully support a statement made by Dr. E. F. Armstrong, managing director of the British Dyestuffs Corporation, that the chemical industry is dependent largely upon the whims and fancies of the modern flapper.

"The flapper after all, is chemistry's patron saint," said Professor Low. "She has rings on her fingers made of synthetic stones by chemists. She has rings on her toes—that is to say slight footwear—made of artificial skins. She wears mysterious underclothes, the material of which are one of the greatest achievements of modern chemistry.

"If we survey the flapper more in detail the very sheen of her hair is perhaps synthetic and on her face are the lingeries of dyestuffs products. Almost everything which the flapper displays to our admiring view, even to bracelets and bangles, is the work of the chemist."

"Only about 25 per cent. of girls have naturally colored hair," added Professor Low. "The rest use henna or peroxide or else heightening washes, and they are not ashamed of it.

"The flapper's face owes its red roses to red oxide of lead on lips and cheeks. Her dark eye lashes and brows are mainly evolved from the judicious use of lampblack or carbon. Her face creams are largely extracts of petroleum. Her pink-tipped nails are covered with tinted celluloid."

WIFE SINCE 1867 FINDS 'DIVORCE AGE' BAFFLING

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis L. Stone of Clinton, parents of Orra L. Stone, general manager of the Associated Industries of Massachusetts, observed the 60th anniversary of their marriage today by motoring to Boston and having luncheon at the Copley-Plaza Hotel with their son and daughter.

"Not many couples have lived happily together such a long time," said Mrs. Stone just before sitting down to a table decorated with flowers.

Then, commenting upon quick divorces of Reno and Paris, she smiled and looked across at her husband, saying: "We have been very fortunate."

Mrs. Stone, who has been a semi-invalid for seven years as a result of a shock, walks with the aid of a cane, but her husband is as spry as when he quit being a mail carrier in Clinton at the age of 75.

Both are eighty-two years old. They were accompanied to Boston by their faithful Chow dog, "Chin."

"We probably won't have many more anniversaries," said Mr. Stone as some one in the party wished him and his wife many more. "I'm going on 83."

Their daughter is Miss Ina C. Stone, employed at the courthouse in Worcester.

HICCOUGH VICTIM GIVES THANKS FOR NEW REMEDY

With a fervent letter of thanks in his pocket from John R. McCarthy, Dorchester hiccough sufferer, who now considers himself permanently cured, Joseph W. Lavigne of No. 93 Front street, Worcester, today returned satisfied with his battle of days to induce doctors and family of McCarthy now considers his cure.

The preparation has a relieving effect and worked, according to McCarthy's letter, in slightly more than one hour, causing a pronounced "snap" where most of the trouble has been since the malady started Thanksgiving Day.

FRENCHMAN AND GERMAN WIN PEACE PRIZE

Oslo, Norway, Dec. 8 (A.P.)—The Nobel peace prize has been awarded Prof. Ludwig Quidde of Germany and Prof. Ferdinand Buisson of France. They are expected here Saturday to share in the award.

Paris, Dec. 8 (A.P.)—If "peace"; and "disarmament" are household words in millions of homes, credit is due in no small measure to Ferdinand Buisson, a timid bespectacled little man of 87 who looks the part he has played all his long and eventful life—that of school teacher.

Buisson has won the Nobel peace prize exactly sixty years after he began his career as world's most persistent pacifist.

In 1867 at the first congress for peace and liberty, when Garibaldi, the Italian liberator, was present, Buisson started militating for peace. Two years later at the second congress, held at Lousanne under the presidency of Victor Hugo, he made an impassioned speech.

Since then he has tirelessly devoted his energy to peace propaganda of every form. Even now, as the honorary president of the league of the rights of man, he is continuing his war against war.

Prof. Quidde of the University of Munich is another veteran worker for peace. During the World War he came in for much adverse criticism in Germany.

SENATOR-ELECT VARE'S SUMMER HOME LOOTED

Atlantic City, N. J., Dec. 8 (I.N.S.).—Police today were investigating a burglary in the Summer home of United States Senator-elect William S. Vare of Pennsylvania. The exact loss will not be known until Vare returns from Washington. The House has been closed for the Winter and contained many valuable works of art and a quantity of silver.

NEW YEAR SHOWS CHARGE $11 A SEAT ON BROADWAY

New York, Dec. 8 (A.P.)—Theatre ticket prices for many shows on Broadway on New Year's Eve will be higher than the average in recent years. Eight musical shows, it was learned today, will charge $11 for orchestra seats. The highest price reporter for dramatic shows is $7.70.

MEXICO TRIED TO FIX U. S. SENATE

call a special session of the National Congress, once it got in power, for the purpose of abrogating the Bryan-Chamorro Treaty under which the United States obtained the right to build the proposed Nicaraguan Canal. And fewer persons still could have conceived of Mexico suggesting to Japan a secret treaty providing for Japanese colonization of the Nicaraguan Canal Zone and Japanese military aid in a war with the United States.

It was while these and other anti-American plans were fermenting in the minds of President Calles and his Cabinet Members that the New York City Financial Agent of the Mexican Government conceived the scheme of naming a member of the United States Senate as the beneficiary of a $1,200,000 fund, to be delivered through an "intermediary agent."

Aaron Saenz, Mexican Minister of Foreign Relations, was one of the most enthusiastic supporters of the plan to tamper with the highest American legislative body by giving money to one of its most influential members. While Ambassador Telles and Alberto J. Pani, Secretary of the Treasury, apparently thought the scheme was both risky and costly, Minister Saenz approved it wholeheartedly. This approval was communicated to Senor Elias in a telegram dated July 8, 1926. The Hearst papers have both the code telegram and the decoded Spanish text of this message. The English translation follows:

Mexico, D. F.
July 8, 1926.

Senor Arturo M. Elias,
Consul General of Mexico,
New York, N. Y.

"Your code telegram of today. I felicitate you much on arrangements with Senator which you indicate to me in your letter of July 1. The Citizen President already has ordered transferred to you the funds indicated, conducting the operation in a secret form. I felicitate you for your success. I salute you." Saenz.

Tomorrow's installment of this series will reveal how $1,215,000 was ordered paid to four high officials of the American government at a time when affairs between this country and Mexico were at a crisis.

'CAPTIVE' BOY IS SOUGHT IN CHINATOWN

A detail of officers from the Lagrange station were combing the nooks and corners of Boston's Chinatown today in a renewed search for Sylvana Vicellone, 16, son of Cesare Vicellone of Lawrence, believed to be held captive.

The boy's father was called to Boston for questioning. He has been hunting for his son since last August, reporting receipt of a nearly illegible letter today in his son's handwriting, saying, "I am being held a prisoner by Chinese crooks." A pathetic appeal for liberation is also made out of the scribble on a piece of brown paper bag.

Superintendent Michael H. Crowley, learning of the possibility of the boy's detention in Chinatown, ordered Captain Herbert A. Goodwin to send a detail into the district, with instructions to force their way in the hunt wherever admittance is denied. The boy disappeared August 1, and until receipt of the paper bag plea, has not been heard from. All traces of him were completely out.

BARS ANTI-CIGARETTE WORKERS IN SCHOOLS

Washington, Dec. 8 (A.P.).—Field workers of the Anti-Cigarette Alliance today were barred from the District of Columbia schools by a decision of the Board of Education that lectures upon the use of cigarettes might be construed as dealing with a controversial subject.

25 DRIVEN OUT BY FIRE IN LYNN SCHOOLHOUSE

Seventy-five patients, ten of them women in the maternity ward, were on the verge of panic when aroused by nurses and twenty-five residents of the vicinity were driven to the street in night garb when fire early today destroyed the Tracy Grammar School at Linwood road and Walnut street, Lynn, with a loss estimated at $200,000.

Lynn police believe that a firebug was responsible for the blaze. It was the third Lynn school to burn since April, 1926. A general alarm brought aid from Swampscott, Salem and Revere.

The school, in the West Lynn section, is about two hundred yards distant from the Lynn Union Hospital which was menaced by sparks borne over it by a brisk breeze.

Firemen kept surrounding houses and tenements well wet down. There was a force of 152 firemen on the scene.

Persons driven out by the heat included in Walnut street: Herbert Reynolds, John Harank, John McNeil, Mrs. Mary McEntee, Henry M. Twomey, Julia Bennard and her mother and Edward Gainey. While in Linwood road those driven out included Mrs. Mary J. Cahill, Earl E. Shaw, Bartholomew H. Deveney, Mrs. Grace A. Skillington, Joseph R. Smythe, Mrs. Freda Ekstrand, Mrs. Charlotte Sedequist, James Hapgood and Israel B. Vickery.

Booms Aviation

HARVARD SPEAKER

Harry F. Guggenheim, sponsor of the Lindbergh tour of the country in the "Spirit of St. Louis," and a leader in aviation, lectured at Harvard today, stressing the need of public support for aviation.

'L' IS VALUED AT $118,000,000-$188,000,000

Value of the Boston Elevated Railway property "for transportation purposes" was set at $118,857,253 today by the Public Utilities Commission in a report to the Legislature.

This figure is approximately $9,000,000 higher than the option price at which the State may purchase the company under the 1918 public control act.

The reproduction cost of the road's property, less depreciation and obsolescence, is given by the commission as $188,016,892, while the book value is stated to be $103,102,425.83.

In making this report, which constitutes a reply to a questionnaire from the Legislature, the commission disclosed that the Elevated has torn up 44 miles of tracks, which, with line equipment, reached a value of $1,415,321.12, and has discontinued 21 miles more, all of which will be written off the books.

Governor Fuller, at his first meeting with newspapermen on his return from abroad, declared today at the State House that "public control of the Elevated is the ideal solution," thus shattering the hopes of many who have hoped to win him to public ownership.

He indicated that he would be opposed, however, to long extension of public control, explaining that "it is pretty hard to read the future."

"We have public control without public ownership," he said. "The objections to government ownership, I think, are good valid objections."

CARDINAL HITS OUT AT MEXICO

place after mass, His Eminence said he was grateful to God for being blessed with good health and a sense of humor. "I am happy to say that all through my life I never allowed myself to lose something of the sense of proportion," he said.

"I thank God that because of good health and a sense of humor I can laugh as heartily as any young boy. I am happy to be associated in the Boston diocese and look back with pleasure upon my work in Rome and in Japan.

"No one I believe has been more blessed with finer friendships, both Catholic and non-Catholic alike, and the general friendliness towards me is of precious and inestimable value.

He said that although his position tended to remove him from the great human family, he has safeguarded that situation by maintaining friendships as strong and as firm as forty years ago.

"Don't take trips and crosses too seriously," he advised. "All pass in time. Evils come and go, but God reigns forever in His Heavens."

He expressed best of wishes to all Bostonians and to people throughout the State, declaring that he had cause to be grateful to all.

4 MEN IN STATE STREET GAMING RAID FINED $5

The four men arrested in a raid on the third floor of a State Street building today pleaded guilty before Judge J. Parmenter in Municipal Court to being present where gaming implements were found and were fined $5 each.

The men were Edward Brown Haviland street, Back Bay; Harold Wesley, Chambers street, West End; Charles Thomas, Hammond terrace, Roxbury, and Henry Palmer, Brighton avenue, Allston.

Brown, additionally charged with maintaining a nuisance, pleaded guilty and the case was placed on file.

5 STOWAWAYS, NEAR DEATH, REACH BOSTON

Five stowaways who nearly died from thirst before they were found aboard the sugar boat Santa Veronica when that vessel docked here today from Port Tarafia, Cuba. They will be deported.

Two members of the crew were arrested in Cuba and left imprisoned there when caught trying to smuggle three other men aboard. It was not known then that five had already been smuggled aboard and hidden in sugar bags.

The leaving behind of the two accomplices in the crew deprived the five stowaways of help in getting food and water. Two finally attracted attention and got help for all at a time when death was near.

WOMAN DRIVER RECALLED ON SAME DRUNK CHARGE

Brockton, Dec. 8.—Several hours after she had accepted a suspended sentence of one month in the House of Correction on a charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, Miss Laura Curtin of South avenue, Whitman, was ordered to appear in Brockton District Court tomorrow to face the same charge.

Judge C. C. King, who heard Miss Corbin's case in the morning session, learned that a suspended sentence did not conform with the law in view of the fact that Miss Corbin had received a similar sentence on a previous charge of driving under the influence of liquor. The recalling of the case will probably stay the action of Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin, who said he would investigate.

2 AIRMEN FAIL IN FLIGHT FOR ENDURANCE RECORD

San Francisco, Dec. 8 (A.P.).—The "Spirit of California," tri-motored monoplane piloted by Captain Charles Kingsford-Smith and Lieutenant George H. Pond, U. S., landed at Mills Field at 11:28 a. m. today, after abandoning a third attempt to break the world's endurance flight record. A broken gas line was assigned as the reason for the failure.

'LINDY' BACKER IN BOSTON

The great need of public support of aviation was stressed in a lecture at Harvard University today by Harry F. Guggenheim, sponsor of the Lindbergh tour and president of the Daniel Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics, Inc.

Guggenheim addressed students of the School of Business Administration and following his lecture answered questions of students and instructors. He visited the aeronautical display in the library building, lunched at the university and left Boston for New York late today.

BOSTON TRAIN HITS TRUCK; DRIVER IS NEAR DEATH

New Bedford, Dec. 8 (A.P.).—A New Bedford bound train from Boston struck a light truck on the Cutley street railroad crossing in Berkeley today. The driver of the truck, Manuel Raposo, 49, New Bedford, was thrown out, hitting a pole. He was rushed to St. Luke's Hospital here and examination revealed concussions of both lungs and possible fractured jaw. His name was placed on the danger list.

This is the third accident this week in the Raposa family.

Not ONE kind of helpful shoe... but MANY!

The new Coward catalog is ready. Send for it.

Yes, so many kinds of "helpful shoes" since Coward conceived the first Comfort Shoe more than sixty years ago! Many of them very fine shoes, indeed—for the purpose for which they are intended.

But how are you going to tell which shoe is best for you—what particular kind of help your feet need? Experiment is painful—and expensive.

How comforting, then, to have the great Coward Shoe Stores. For Coward has every kind of comfort shoe—to help folks troubled with every known foot ill. We know that one type of shoe can't possibly help all people—so we carry all types. And our salesmen are trained fitters who know in which shoe you'll find the most foot comfort.

M'LEAN OPENS FIGHT FOR VARE

Washington, Dec. 8 (A.P.)—The Smith-Vare fight became merely the Vare fight today, as the Senate began its round of oratory preceding the vote by which opponents of William S. Vare of Pennsylvania were determined to deny him the oath of office, as they denied it yesterday to Frank L. Smith of Illinois.

These two Senators-elect, whose campaign expenditures caused such a furore during the last session, had seats assigned them on the floor from which to listen to denunciation and defense, but they were there merely as spectators.

Senator McLean, Republican, Connecticut, took up the cause of Vare at the opening of debate today, lamenting the "inability for a disinterested trial" for the Pennsylvanian.

OPEN DUKE SUIT FOR 45 MILLION

Newark, N. J., Dec. 8 (A.P.)—A jury was selected in federal court here today to try the $45,000,000 damage suit against the estate of James B. Duke, tobacco magnate, by George D Haskell of Springfield, Mass. Judge Runyon presided.

Naming William R. Perkins, one of the executors of the estate, as defendant, Haskell seeks to recover triple damages of $12,000,000 under the Sherman anti-trust law, alleging breach of contract, and the formation of a trust.

The complaint charged that Duke before his death agreed to finance a concern for the manufacture of aluminum in which Haskell was to supply expert knowledge. Duke failed to carry out the contract, it was alleged.

Irish Shillalah May Land on G. B. Shaw

London, Dec. 8 (I.N.S.)—The verbal head cast upon the world waters recently by George Bernard Shaw concerning the "incorrigible beggarliness" of Ireland was returned to him today a hundredfold at a dinner given at the Irish Club.

Lieutenant Colonel Grantmorden, president of the club, declared "There is one man upon whom I would like to exercise my presidential prerogative of using the shillalah. It is Shaw—an ill bird that fouls his own nest."

A. M. Sullivan, a well known lawyer said:

"Shaw is the last person in the world who is entitled to criticise Irish failings. The chief failing of Irishmen is straightforwardness. One who has done so well in this profession might spare his own countrymen the lash of his tongue."

Shaw recently advised people in the United States against sending shoes and money to Ireland because "she is an incorrigible beggar."

An Entire Building Devoted Twelve Months of the Year to Gifts of China, Glass and Lamps.

IT IS SAID this will be known to future historians as the "Age of Glass." Glassware satisfies the modern craving for color, economy, lightness, convenience and cleanliness. Probably more glass goblets will be given this Christmas than ever using different styles and colors of glass for different occasions. Amber glass is lovely for a Christmas table. For bridge table refreshments some like to use pale pink glass goblets with pale green glass plates. Goblets, in other words, have become "decoration" as well as something to drink out of.

WIFE, 21, KILLS MATE TO ATTEND BRIDGE PARTY

Painesville, O., Dec. 8 (A.P.)—A restless night in a county jail cell, smoking cigarettes for solace, was twenty-one-year-old Velma West's preparation today for facing a charge of husband slaying.

Mrs. West signed a confession that she had slain her husband, Thomas E. West, twenty-six, Tuesday night at their home in Perry, using a claw hammer and a table leg for weapons, and that she had then motored to Cleveland to keep a bridge party engagement.

The arrest was made at the Cleveland home of her mother, Mrs. Catherine Van Woert. Brought here, Mrs. West was given no information that she was suspected of having knowledge of how her husband met his death.

After two hours of questioning, Sheriff Rasmussen suddenly asked: "Why did you leave the back door open?"

Mrs. West seemed suddenly to will, then straightening, she replied: "Alright, I'll tell the truth. I killed him after a quarrel." The bridge party, to which she had been invited by Miss Mabel Young of Cleveland, was the cause of the quarrel, the confession said. Her husband did not want her to go.

OPEN DRIVE TO KILL THE TAX ON DRAMA

Eight organizations united today in an intensive campaign to obtain modification of the national tax schedule and eliminate theatre admission taxes which are "killing the drama," according to the organizations' claim.

The Actors' Equity Association, the Authors' League, the Theatre Owners' Association, Producing Managers' Association, the Dramatists' Guild, Society of American Authors and Composers, Stage Hands' Union and the Federation of Union Musicians are the bodies united in the move.

Here is the appeal:

"The American drama is being slowly curtailed year after year. It is virtually absent in Maine, Texas, Vermont, New Hampshire and in other States. It is hazardous to send a company on tour now. It will be less hazardous if the admission tax is eliminated.

"Thousands of people stay away. They resent paying a war tax boy after the war is over. We can prove the tax is proving more and more deadly to our business. That is why we are asking simply for justice and relief at a time when we sorely need it, undeniably more than any business in the country. Don't tax the spoken drama out of existence."

Suggests Miniature Plane for 'Cal's' Gift

A MINIATURE airplane, "The Spirit of New England," in gold or silver, to represent the achievement of American airmen during 1927, is suggested by Superintendent of Public Buildings John P. Englert as an appropriate Christmas gift for President Coolidge.

In his letter, Superintendent Englert gives substantial reasons why this gift might fill one bill.

But nothing is yet decided, nor will be until after December 15, when the season for suggestions closes.

And so there is still time for every reader to mail in his or her suggestion for a gift from the Boston Evening American, Boston and New England, to the nation's chief executive.

Remember—the gift should cost $50 and must be made in New England. Address President's Gift Editor, No. 5 Winthrop square, Boston.

Superintendent Englert's interesting letter follows:

President's Gift Editor:

President Coolidge has taken keen interest in aviation in 1927 and in the accomplishments of such wonderful pioneers as Lindbergh, Chamberlin, Byrd, Hagenberger and Maitland. The world has been amazed during 1927 by courageous exploits in the air. Perhaps aviation has been of as much importance to President Coolidge this year as any other subject with which he has had to deal.

New England has been prominent in this respect. The fliers have been entertained here and we have figured in transatlantic flights.

Why not have a miniature airplane—"The Spirit of New England"—made of silver or gold with a suitable inscription of good wishes from the Boston Evening American and the people of New England to our beloved President, as a lasting souvenir and gift of the historic year, 1927? Such a gift could be made in New England and the cost should not exceed $50.

(Signed) JOHN P. ENGLERT,
Supt. of Public Buildings.

Among the numerous other suggestions received in late mails were these two:

President's Gift Editor:

We would suggest a $20 gold piece for a watch charm with the impression of the White House on one side and the portrait impression of the President on the other, together with a suitable inscription. This should make a beautiful gift.

(Signed)

Mr. and Mrs. William Winefeld,
Leominster.

President's Gift Editor:

While on a Thanksgiving trip back home in Boston I noted that you are asking suggestions for a gift for our President. As you say, he has every luxury and necessity, so I would suggest a photograph or painting of his Vermont home, if photographed, it may be colored and a Winter scene might express the Christmas spirit more than one of Summer. (Signed) W. S. McGaw, No. 2926 Birchwood avenue, Chicago.

CHAMBER FLAYS PARCEL POST SNAIL SPEED

Citing serious faults in parcel post handling, including long delays and archaic methods of handling, the Boston Chamber of Commerce committee on postal facilities today in vigorous language requested Postmaster-General New for immediate changes.

Parcel post service between New York and Walpole is faster than between Boston and Walpole, and as a consequence merchants in that Massachusetts town, near to Boston, order rush shipments from New York rather than from this city, the committee stated as one instance of delay.

A test, it was also stated, showed that packages mailed in New York to addresses in Boston took anywhere from one to eight days in transit.

"In many cases the amount of breakage has caused a severe handicap to the Boston retail stores, one firm reporting that breakage in parcel post is three times that found in its own delivery service," declared Chairman Leonard J. Raymond of the Chamber Committee in his letter to the postmaster-general.

"Our committee recommends that the Department undertake at once a trial of some movable metal container system. We believe it is time now for action."

I. C. C. DEMANDS MORE POWER IN RAIL MERGERS

Washington, Dec. 8 (A.P.)—More power to control and direct railroad consolidation policies was sought from Congress today by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

In its annual report, the commission formally recommended changes and additions to laws governing railroad consolidation, nearly all of which would give the federal government a firmer and more complete grip upon carriers.

The commission asked that Congress make unlawful "any consolidation or acquisition of the control of one carrier by another in any manner whatsoever, except with our specific approval and authorization."

This proposal was designed to prevent railroad mergers being effectuated by round-about methods. It also asked Congress to give it "broad powers to approve or disapprove such consolidations, acquisitions of control, mergers or unifications in any appropriate manner." Such a grant of power would insure the commission's authority to modify or allow in part proposals submitted to it.

Discussing railroad operations, the commission pointed out that increased operating efficiency and greater safety for human life and limb was notable in the common carrier field at the present time.

may know" that Colorado has the best beer as well as the best climate.

Men out here discuss President Coolidge's message and like it. They say this is a business country, he is a business President and sends in business messages, about things that the country needs. The majority of them think the President will not run again, and are sorry.

A few words in the President's message says: "We are at peace. The country as a whole has had a prosperity never exceeded. Wages are at their highest range, employment is plentiful."

If that condition lasts, as it probably will, until election day 1928, what chance is there of putting out the Republican party? Could the Angel Gabriel himself win, if he ran on the Democratic ticket, with prosperity and 7,000,000 plurality against him?

The Rev. Frank W. Bible, missionary, says: "Atheism is spreading in America and in the East, and is literally gripping the world." He thinks the coming fight will be between Christianity and Atheism, Asia becoming Christian or Atheist. The first step will be a uniting of all Protestant churches.

It is difficult to understand how Atheism can "grip the world." With WHAT does it grip? Atheism is mere denial and foolish. There was never a real atheist. No man can be an atheist who admits that everything of importance is beyond his comprehension, that the universe is sustained and directed by a power whose existence he feels but cannot define.

Only an idiot would really be an atheist. Only a fool or bigot would insist that others accept his particular definition of God and his right to interpret Omnipotence and Omniscience.

This country, urged to recognize the Russian government, because we do business with Russia, says no; Russia must accept our standards before we recognize Russia. The next step would be to let Russia know what our standards are. Are they represented by our dominating corporations, by our lynchings, by our bootlegging, by some of our recent elections to the Senate for cash, by our inability to do anything but talk when powerful men steal a government oil supply?

What are our standards, exactly?

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Pollie Adams Pierce Wedded Richard Leland Thompson at Noon Today

TODAY WERE CELEBRATED THE WEDDING RITES OF MISS POLLIE ADAMS PIERCE of Boston and Richard Leland Thompson of New York, by a small and intimate home ceremonial with just a few nearest friends and relatives in attendance. The nuptials took place at noon, at he town residence in Raleigh street of Miss Pierce's mother, Mrs. Harry Winfred Goodall. Utmost simplicity marks the affair and so to be in keeping there was but one attendant for the bride Miss Josephine Mosely, who came up from Pittsburgh to be honor maid.

THE REV. ASHLEY DAY LEAVITT READ THE MARRIAGE LINES and Edward Winslow Pierce, 2d, gave his sister in marriage. It was not so very long ago, in Mid-Summer, that the engagement was announced. Mr. Thompson is the son of the Frederic Leland Thompsons of New York and Rye Beach, and will take his bride down to a smart Jersey seaboard to set up the new home. Like other talented girls with an urge to "do something" with her gifts, Miss Pierce has been one of the social butterflies turned actress, and all last season trod the boards of the Copley Theatre, a charming member of that well known and greatly appreciated troupe.

FOR SENTIMENT'S SAKE THE BRIDE WORE HER MOTHER'S wedding veil, some exquisite ivory tinted lace and tulle, held beneath a small cap. Instead of the usual bouquet so many brides consider indispensable Mrs Thompson carried a white prayer book to harmonize with her gown of supple white velvet and Brussels lace in the picture mode. Miss Moseley was a symphony in golden browns, her frock of burnt orange and her shoes and chapeau of the mellow tone called "blonde" this season.

BEVERLY NICHOLS WAS A LION AMONG THE LADIES yesterday afternoon at the Hotel Somerset. And the ladies, old and young, hung on the every word of this brilliant young Britisher as he, for much more than an hour, let his subtle wit play rapier like over a charmed audience. He carried his hearers with him on his 'impertinent intrusions" into the lairs of famous writer people. Mr. Shaw and Mr. Wells, Mr. Locke, Mr. Bennett, Mr Wodehouse, Mr. Masefield, to watch Mr. Lloyd-George consume a gigantic breakfast, and into the study of Sir Arthur Wing Pinero. Little excursions, pleasingly droll, and of cameo delicacy in portraiture.

AFTER THE LECTURE, MRS. FRANCIS V. CRANE CARRIED MR NICHOLS off to sip a refreshing cup of tea at the Ritz, in company with a few congenial spirits. Last evening Mr. Nichols had an informals from Honiton, being the guest of friends for a quiet little dinner. Today he steps back into the limelight as co-star at the Literary Luncheon at the Repertory. Miss Doris Teele, author of a book just off the press, occupies centre stage with the young Britisher, and prominent local people will be on hand for the affair.

MRS. CRANE, AT THE HOTEL SOMERSET, WAS FETCHINGLY arrayed to play the hostess to so distinguished a young man as Mr. Nichols. Her frock was wine red, and her wrap and hat of soft silvery gray. Miss Polly Beale, one of the Campfire Girls doing yeoman work for her cause (Mr Nichols spoke for Campfire House), was on hand to see that ushers and such did their duties smoothly. Miss Virginia Cowles, another of the youthful band concerned in the successful outcome, was attractive in black and white. Mrs. I. Tucker Burr was an appreciative listener fo. Mr Nichols—it is really marvelous how indefatigable are the fashionables in their attendance at lectures, musicales, balls and receptions.

A DINNER FOR NEARLY A HUNDRED GUESTS IS THE important preliminary to tomorrow evening's very important debutante ball Miss Betty Barrell, celebrating her 18th birthday thus felicitously, is having given for her the one very large bud function of the 1927-8 Winter. To be the honored bud for so stupendous a function is to be the envied of her mates. There are numerous dinners beforehand and then hundreds and hundreds of guests will dance in the Copley-Plaza ballroom, marvellously transformed into a flowery bower of great beauty. Mr. and Mrs. Augustus F. Goodwin are hosts for all this magnificence.

JOSEPHINE MURRAY

The little daughter of Dr. Murray of Brimmer street, is perfectly outfitted for a bout with the snow on the esplanade. Note the shovel and the rubber boots.

RETURNING IN SEASON FOR SOME OF THE WINTER'S SMARTEST parties, Mrs. Nathaniel Farwell Ayer arrives in town today or tomorrow from the Far West. Mrs. Ayer has been spending the Autumn in California and now rejoins Mr. Ayer at their town house here. She was Miss Helen Draper, and is kin to the Princess Margaret Boncompagni, who recently visited Boston at the Ritz and now has gone to Washington, where she has hosts of friends in social and diplomatic circles. She was the daughter of a former Ambassador to Italy, the late William Draper.

MISS LOUISE IRELAND AND MISS PHEBE WARREN ANDREWS, who came over for Miss Gloria Braggiotti's presentation party, made a brief but busy weekend of it, taking in several theatres before dashing back to the Big City. Miss Braggiotti and Miss Andrews were schoolmates at a select establishment for young ladies in Switzerland, and now continue their intimacy during debutante days. Miss Ireland is a daughter of Mrs. Davis Ireland of Washington, New York and Bar Harbor. The two out-of-town girls were guests at the small dinner which preceded the coming-out dance.

AROUND THE WORLD ON A CRUISE ABOARD THE BELGENLAND is the alluring plan that Miss Grace Caswell of Boston and Keene has to occupy the next several months. The Belgenland traverses the globe, going the westward way, nosing through the Canal and across the Pacific and thence through the Suez Canal and the Mediterranean Sea. Miss Caswell debarks in Italy, and goes for a month to Paris, before crossing to London and so home. She is but one of the many, many people to whom the wanderlust calls, and one of the fortunates ones who may respond.

TUFTS TEACHER 60 YEARS QUITS

The resignation of Prof. Charles E. Fay, for sixty years a teacher at Tufts College, was accepted today by the trustees. When he had seen fifty years of service he attempted to resign, but his resignation was refused by the trustees. During his career as a teacher, begun when a boy in his teens as master of a little red schoolhouse in Nashua, N. H., he has successfully become scholar, educator, alpinist, writer, and lecturer.

It is perhaps as an alpinist that Professor Fay is best known the world over. He began climbing mountains at the age of fifty years as a recreation and nearly every Summer since that time has seen him mounting the heights in either Europe or Western America. So well known have been his ascents that a huge mountain in the Canadian Rockies, near Banff, has been named Mount Fay in his honor.

40-YEAR SKYSCRAPER SURE TO TUMBLE, SAYS EXPERT

New York, Dec. 8 (A.P.)—American skyscrapers if allowed to stand more than 40 years will certainly tumble down, says Sir Edwin Lutyens, British architect.

He says the methods employed in structural steel construction of giving the steel only a 'coating of paint or one of mud and water" is where the danger chiefly lies, as it gives little protection from atmospheric penetration.

Washington Dec. 8 (I.N.S.)—Backers of the Norris resolution to change the date of presidential inauguration from March 4 to January 15 and abolish "lame duck" sessions of Congress today accepted the challenge of Speaker Longworth and launched a campaign for the amendment in the House.

Longworth declares the resolution was never brought to a vote in the House because of lack of sentiment for it. The resolution has passed the Senate three times.

CROWDS JAM COURTROOM FOR LAST ACT IN LILLIENDAHL DRAMA

WOMAN JURORS IN ALL NIGHT STRUGGLE OVER TWO LIVES

It has been a question in Jersey murder trials to place a time limit of 23 hours on jury deliberations. The one on trial went to the jury at 5:35 yesterday afternoon.

As a result of the long strain while awaiting a verdict today, both defendants in the case were reported on the verge of exhaustion.

When the jurors trooped into the crowded courtroom this morning in answer to the judge's summons, all looked haggard and worn.

Just before the jury arrived Mrs. Margaret Lilliendahl, the accused widow, and her chicken-raising friend, Willie Beach, co-defendant in

Mrs. Lillendahl appeared much worried. Beach was pale and nervous. He took a seat beside the widow and clasped his hands tightly as the jurors and the judge conferred.

In the deadlock existing when court opened today ten of the jurors were reported as being in favor of acquittal with the other two firmly holding out for conviction. An earlier report said ten were favoring conviction and two acquittal.

Beach and Mrs. Lillendahl are jointly accused of killing the woman's doctor husband, William A. Lillendahl, as the result of a secret love affair.

Widow Near Collapse

While the jurors were in the courtroom it was noticed that Mrs. Ella M. Dietrich, No. 6, looked as if she had been crying. Her eyes were red and tearful.

It was recalled that Mrs. Dietrich was accepted despite the fact that she openly declared she was opposed to capital punishment.

As the accused widow left the courtroom just after the jurors filed back to their deliberations she appeared on the verge of a collapse. Her face was tensely drawn and filled with grief.

On the short walk back to the cell in the county jail Sheriff Climo walked at her side and she grasped his arm for support. Another deputy, noting her condition quickly stepped up and aided the sheriff in helping her along. There was no trace of the wide, confident smile she had worn when the jury first retired with the case at 5:35 yesterday afternoon.

The widow had but one remark to make when she arrived in court today and learned that the jury was gripped in a deadlock. Turning toward the solemn-faced Beach she said:

"It looks like they aren't going to let us go."

The State planned to demand a new trial if the jury finally decided it could not agree on a verdict.

Prosecutor S. Cameron Hinkle said steps to reopen the case would be taken at once, should such a move be made necessary by the jury's final action.

All Escaped Chair

As the deadlocked jury was struggling with the case it was recalled by courthouse followers that Atlantic County, which includes Mays Landing, has never sent a man or a woman to the electric chair.

It has not sentenced a murderer to death in 21 years, the last execution having been in 1906, when a man named Gaboll was hanged in the county jail yard here.

The year following, electrocution replaced the gallows. Since that time, every verdict of murder in the first degree reported here has borne the added recommendation of clemency, which automatically reduces the sentence to life imprisonment.

Ann's doctor-husband, William A. Lillendahl, as the result of an alleged secret love affair.

'Education of Youth In U. S. Is Pointless,' Says Pres. Faunce

New York, Dec. 8 (A.P.).—Nowhere in the world is education so pointless, aimless, blind and indifferent as in America, President W. H. P. Faunce of Brown University today told the Association of Life Insurance Presidents.

"Education of American youth is a failure," he declared. "Insofar as it aims at expression of faults rather than creation of virtues. Colleges that can give the student some dream of the future and a definite capacity to make the dream come true would be worth more than all the business courses in America."

minimum to the maximum amounts paid in each department.

The remaining $25,000 will be split up in $100 and $200 increases in accordance with the reclassification recommendations made for some grades by a special committee of department heads which studied the situation for the mayor.

Department heads have been given the final decision as to which of their employes who have attained the maximum in their classifications shall receive the increases under the special recommendation.

The Mayor made it plain today that he would frown upon visits from influential friends of city employes soliciting intercession for individuals in whom they are interested.

The Finance Commission will receive budget estimate sheets of each department and its members are expected to recommend general cuts. Last year when the Nichols strength was asserted in the City Council all Fin Com recommendations were ignored and it is doubtful if more consideration will be given them this year.

REMUS WEEPS IN GREETING DARROW

Darrow visited Judge Chester R. Shook in his chambers and met members of the prosecutor's staff including Charles P. Taft, son of former President William Howard Taft.

When court convened Harry Truesdale, sullen-faced gunman of Hamilton, O., took the witness stand.

Truesdale is the "surprise" witness who testified he had been bribed by Mrs. Remus for $10,000 to kill Remus. It was this testimony that broke Remus down. Truesdale said Mrs. Remus paid him $250 expenses and promised him he would get the rest of the money when Remus was "bumped off."

She said, according to Truesdale, that she was to pay $5,000 and that Franklin L. Dodge Jr., he other $5,000. Dodge is accused by Remus of having conspired with Mrs. Remus to keep him in prison, and to appropriate his property as well as the woman's love.

Truesdale testified today that he turned to Remus the afternoon of October 5 when he began to think he was being double-crossed.

"I was afraid of the man," said Truesdale who had been trying for days to get a chance to kill Remus

"So you are a man killer?" asked Walter K. Sibbald, assistant prosecutor, as the first question of cross-examination.

"Yes," replied Truesdale.

COOLIDGE FOR $296,400,000 FLOOD CURB

Washington, Dec. 8 (A.P.)—Placing the full support of the administration behind it, President Coolidge today transmitted to Congress the army engineers' plan for controlling Mississippi River floods.

The proposal deals with the lower valley, from Cairo, Ill., to the Gulf, and would cost $296,400,000 to be expended in ten years.

It provides for a spillway above New Orleans diverting floods into the Atchafalaya and Tensas basins in Louisiana, a riverbank roadway from Cairo to New Madrid, Mo., the strengthening and raising of existing levees and the stabilization of the river channel.

TO SPLIT THE COST.

The Federal government would bear 50 per cent of the cost of the control project, estimated at $157,- 000,000 and 75 per cent of the $11,000,000 expense for rectification and dredging of the channel.

The levee States would assume 20 per cent, of the flood control cost. The national government now pays only 9-24 per cent. of flood control costs.

The recommended plan "fundamentally differs from the present project in that it limits the amount of flood water carried in the main river to its safe capacity," the report said "and sends the surplus water through lateral floodways."

OMIT LEVEES PLAN.

The scheme of levees of sufficient height to contain the maximum possible floods which was the pay method, it added, was discussed and found inadvisable.

Reforestation is held under the plan to be a supplementary measure, although it is considered "a step in the right direction and beneficial in reducing soil erosion." The forest service had recommended the acquisition of 5,000,000 acres of land for reforestation at an estimated cost of $45,000,000.

JAILED AS GIRL KILLER, BEWAILS 'TIGHT SHIRT'

Complaining about the ill fit of a prohibition officer's heated shirt and the fact that charges on his automobile, on "cold storage," were piling up, Joseph Foster Buckley was back from the Waltham Hospital today and given into custody of Sheriff John H. Fahlbeck of Middlesex County.

Buckley is charged with murder in the wounding of his sweetheart, Miss Grace Mack, 19, of Waltham, when the two were seated in his coupe car, parked in a lonely lane after a midnight tryst.

He was taken into the sheriff's custody after appearing before Judge David F. Dixon in Middlesex superior court. It is expected that the indicted slayer, who attempted to end his own misery after the shooting, will be arraigned on two murder indictments.

With Buckley a condition at the hospital was critical, has eater took his calling home. Today when Inspector Peter J. Tracy and Policeman Michael Harrington called at the hospital to take him to Jail Cambridge, Buckley was confronted with the possibility of living to pay for his own pause was glad only in death.

Probation Officer Stuart Cochran of the Waltham Court came to the rescue, however. Scurrying through his locker and his office, he secured a shirt, hat, coat, trousers, etc., and sacks and these were draped on Buckley.

His only complaint to Patrolman Frank Maguire, who his self guard over him since the shooting was on the part of the shirt and he continued to complain of the ill set of the garment all the way to East Cambridge.

When brought before Judge Dixon, the accused slayer was ordered held in custody of Sheriff Fahlbeck.

Mellon's Candidate a Good One; From Where He Lives

Washington, Dec. 8 (A.P.)—Secretary Mellon took the unusual course today of allowing himself to be directly quoted in a discussion on Presidential candidates.

Asked what kind of a President he thought the country needed, he replied

"A good one."

Questioned concerning what part of the country such a man should come from, he said

"Wherever he lives."

FEEL IT IN 1929.

"In this connection it should be borne in mind that the full effects of the law as proposed to be modified will not be felt until the fiscal year 1929.

"This fiscal year, ending June 30, 1928, will show a large surplus, as less than half the reductions proposed will be applicable to it and the Treasury is likely to receive large payments from corporations.

House leaders hope to have the measure passed in the house before Christmas. An effort will be made to get it to the senate by December 17.

AdamsHouseBridalSuite Dainties Bring $41.50

Brides of yesterday became part of the passing crowd who came to bid in the dainty porcelains of the once splendid bridal suite of the old Adams House when these articles were bid in at auction for a total of $41.50.

Among the most eagerly sought were the bridal pair in Louis Fourteenth costumes grouped on a book and the two exquisite figures which now [illegible] grace the mantlepiece. The Wedgwood plates and ornate Bohemian glass water pitcher also claimed favor. The bridal suite furniture brought $311.50.

As the closing days of the auction of this famous old hotel approached the public flocked in greater numbers and the furnishings sold for higher prices.

Second floor rooms, with better grade furniture, brought prices their eliminated dealers from the bidding, as former patrons were determined to secure favorite pieces.

What Coffee? Ask them in this Coffee Room

HERE is where you'll expect to find the finest coffee in New England. In this quaint Old English Coffee Room of the palatial Hotel Kenmore, Boston. It is crowded from morning until midnight by lovers of old English hospitality.

It's a "Coffee Room," so exquisite coffee is a feature of the place. All who go there expect an exceptional blend. But how many of you in such places ask the coffee's name? Don't you think it wise to do so?

The coffee is La Touraine. It was selected, like everything else here, to give distinction to the place. When you once taste it you will never forget it. But you should also remember the name.

Your grocer will supply it for use in your home if you ask for La Touraine Coffee. It will cost you no extra price. Then you will know that your folks are enjoying the finest coffee now served in America.

That's the way to get exquisite coffee. Ask at fine hotels and famous restaurants which employ experts to select. And which pride themselves on coffee. Serve what they serve, for you might as well have the best.

Make a note of the name—La Touraine. Then ask your grocer for it today.

Why they use La Touraine Coffee

Because it holds the top place in New England, the birthplace of fine coffees.

Because experts regard it the supreme result of 237 years of coffee development.

Because the four finest coffees that grow are combined in this blend. Each comes from a different country, each is the pride of a nation. Three of them cost 50% more than ordinary coffees. One is so rare that only 30,000 bags are grown yearly.

Because the blend is exclusive and secret. No other blend resembles it. Experts spent twenty years in perfecting this ideal flavor and aroma.

Because E. J. Butler, the noted coffee expert, personally tests and selects every coffee in this blend. Because La Touraine, despite its supreme quality, costs no more than other high-grade coffees.

A HOME PAPER FOR PEOPLE WHO THINK

BOSTON, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1927

Story of a Clever Boston Girl and Her Temperamental Sister

READ THIS FIRST

SALLY JEROME, 20, is the mainstay of her family. Her father had run away. Besides Sally there are the twins, BEAU and MILLIE, aged 21. Millie, the family beauty, is always losing her job when employers "get gay" with her.

Sally works at home in the mornings, for her mother is a semi-invalid. In the afternoons she works for MR. PEEVEY, an elderly eccentric, who does a small mail-order business in Chauncy street. TED SLOAN lives with his mother in the flat below the Jerome flat in Hemenway street. When he tries to make love to Sally she pulls him up short. Sally sees a handsome man in the elevator. She learns that he is John Nye with an office across the hall. Ted proposes to Sally, but she promises her mother not to wed him. Sally tells Millie that Nye needs a stenographer. Sally's funds are nearly gone. Ted again talks marriage. Ted calls again, arriving just as Millie's "sweetie"—named Davidson—arrives to take her out for the evening. Beau works in a bank and Sally wonders where he gets all the money he has had lately. John Nye tells Sally he will employ Millie, but that he prefers Sally. Millie leaves her mother, desperately sick, and goes to meet Nye. Sally calls a doctor. Sally asks Beau and Millie to pay their board. (NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.)

CHAPTER XXI.

MRS. JEROME blundered away to get dressed, and Millie went back to bed. Beau was stayed in bed until noon on Sundays.

"I'll have my coffee in my room, if you don't mind, Honey Child," she called to Sally in a voice that dripped with sweetness, "and bring along the Sunday paper, too, when you get it passed up."

"My soul! You aren't really going to do it for her, are you?" Aunt Emily gasped in astonishment as Sally bent to pick up the pages that Mrs. Jerome had scattered all over the carpet. "She's able to do a few things for herself, I should think! Why do you wait on her, hand, foot and finger?"

"How rude!" asked Sally with a shrug of her pretty shoulders. "The paper's not to be picked up soonер Lucy anyway. And it's just as easy to carry the coffee-pot into the bedroom as it is to set it on the dining room table."

Miss Jerome gave her a long searching look with her dark eyes that moved so quickly and saw so many things that they were not supposed to see.

"Sally, you're a fool to work for those people the way you do," she said finally. "I'd sit for my family all my life and what I made didn't get for it, I'd like to know? Not one bit, and they would either. They'll just work you to pieces, and when you're worn out they'll find somebody else they can treat that same way."

She stopped for a second to let that sink in, and Lucy went briskly on.

"I suppose now that Beau's married he'd have one more person to fetch and carry for around here. Finding his wife home to live, won't he?"

Sally shot a terrified glance at her sister . . . This was a thought! Suppose Beau did bring Mabel here to live for all of their honeymoon . . . Beau, who never had had his own way at home, and certainly would pay Mabel's way either.

"Oh, you don't think they expect to come here, do you?" she asked anxiously, and Aunt Emily gave a short bark of laughter.

"Of course they'll come here!" said she. "You don't expect them to do anything on do you? What other place have they to go to?—Let them come here as soon as they can, so you'd better get ready for them!"

Lucy shook her head and she began to pick up the bits of broken cup and saucer from the carpet under her mother's chair.

"They can't come here," she murmured, more to herself than to her surprised, sharp-tongued aunt.

It was not because of the extra work that Lucy couldn't come she told herself. She would do that willingly.

It was because of the extra expense she'd coming would mean.

Sally knew that no one would be able to pay for the meals, the laundry, the thousand and one little extras for Beau and a bride. With the load of Beau's debts on her shoulders, she was going to have hard enough sledding, as it was, for a long time.

"Aunt Em," she said again, and this time she said it more firmly.

Mother Is Ill and Nine Children Are Facing a Cheerless Yuletide

A family income of ten dollars a week for nine children and a mother and father doesn't leave much margin for dainties. Here's a splendid chance for some big-hearted Goodfellow to spread Christmas happiness in a Charlestown home.

"Mr. dear Santa Claus of the Goodfellows: Please don't forget us as we don't get a lot working and we only get 10 bucks a week. We don't know how we ever will. We are three weeks back in rent. Our landlord is often mean. He hates children.

"My mother cries hard because we are having so much trouble. We get 10 dollars from the city. My father has to work three days for it. My mother is sick as she got hurt.

"Please don't forget us, as there are days we go to school with no dinner. Please don't forget us Christmas. We never have a toy. We sure hope someone will give us toys and warm clothes. Hope you will not forget us as it is going to be a poor Christmas for us nine kiddies."

A Somerville boy, 11 years old writes that he and his mother and his brother and three sisters had only bread and butter on Thanksgiving. His father is sick and his mother has a hard time trying to get food and clothing for all.

JUST TO BE WARM.

"We don't care about toys if we are warm and have enough to eat," he says.

"If you will help me out, when I grow up to be a big man, I will help you in every way."

The girls are 13, 11 and 2. The boys 11 and 4.

ACTRESS CALMS WILD YALE BOYS; GETS BOUQUETS

New Haven, Ct., Dec. 8 (A.P.)—With tears streaming down her cheeks, Miss Roberta A. Arnold leading lady, called a halt to the performance of "Sisters" at a local theatre last night and shouted "Shut up" at the rowdy infuties and told them to "act like gentlemen not hoodlums." A bedlam of noise from toy crying dolls, siren whistles and general "razzing" on the part of Yale students sporting the colors of the junior societies to which they were recently elected made it impossible for the show to continue. Despite Miss Arnold's protest, the noise continued and the players got through the first act of the play, a comedy with great difficulty.

During the intermission Miss Arnold pleaded for order. "I have great respect for Yale men," she said. "I have many friends at the university—past, as well as present. In fact I like Yale considerably more than Harvard."

A tremendous cheer greeted her closing sentiment and the presence of six policemen in the aisles restored order in the playhouse.

At the conclusion of the piece Miss Arnold said she had been a bit frightened when the demonstration began, but she felt better after she saw how her plea for silence was taken by the students.

ARREST PAT SOMERSET AND BRIDE

They Celebrate Wedding Too Wet at Hollywood, and Police Raid Them

Los Angeles, Dec. 8 (A.P.).—Charged with having been drunk at a wild party in Hollywood given to celebrate their wedding, Pat Somerset, English actor, and Shelby Benson Worrall, his bride, have taken separate ways of accounting to the law.

The police plea that he was celebrating his marriage caused the actor to spend a $50 fine. Two friends [illegible] fines.

Mrs. Somerset was released after she had pleaded guilty. Her trial has been set for December 14. The arrest was the wedding announcement for most of their Hollywood friends for Somerset used his true name, Patrick Holm Sinner, in applying for the license prior to the Tuesday wedding and no one associated that name with the Englishman.

"Sure, I adore him," said Mrs. Somerset, one time Queen of Galveston's Mardi Gras, who said she had fallen in love with him when she was a select girl in London.

Somerset divorced his first wife, Margaret Dannaman, and subsequently married Edith Day, former wife of Ludwig Burton, who had named Somerset in his divorce proceedings.

Miss Day divorced Somerset after he had figured in the divorce of Shubert Gallagher and Gallagher's wife, Irene Martin.

GALLIVAN IS WRONG, SAYS SEC. KELLOGG

Washington, Dec. 8 (A.P.).—Charges made in the House yesterday by Representative Gallivan, Democrat, Mass., that Mayor Walker of New York was shadowed by detectives during his recent visit to Paris by order of Sheldon Whitehouse, American cigar, met with flat denial today by Secretary Kellogg.

The secretary authorized the statement that neither the embassy nor any official connected with it employed at any time engaged the services of detectives or of any other persons to keep track of Major Walker's movements.

RADIO DIALOG

by

C. WILLIAM RADOS

THE Champion Bankers, WBZ, featured the evening last night with that song all the rage now, "Hindustan Oblyan." To obviously delight countless thousands of listeners the singer imitated quaint Hindu dialect.

The Smokers got back to form with "One More Night," as the Smokers passed it, a smooth flowing number.

This broadcast was an example of how program managers may change their minds. The Smokers thoughtfully provided us with their detailed program about two weeks ago. It was published. Then last night when we checked we could not discover that they broadcast one number they had promised to.

• • •

The brightest and most talented spot came next when the Sylvania Foresters retrieved some of WBZ's fallen prestige. Here was a thirty-minute program in which a quartet was heard a total of seven times. Blend, as in coffee, was the main factor in producing soothing memories as the quartet called up reminiscent "Swanee River," "Home, Sweet Home" and "My Bubble Lies Over the Ocean."

• • •

We tried WNAC just in time to hear the Keppo Gramm Pet double male quartet sing "Much Ado About Nothing." Unfortunately the full richness and quality of eight singers was not brought out, possibly because of the radio inexperience of the singers.

• • •

Judged purely as an isolated program, this broadcast by a fraternity of the Conservatory of Music was excellent in wealth and material. Its weakness was in lack of acquaintance with radio.

• • •

Our hasty impression of outside stations was that it was not a good night for such work. Around 6 p. m. Pittsburgh, KDKA, was steady and strong enough to warrant future trying. Since WEEI has climbed the ladder to a spot above WNAC we find it difficult to obtain New York, WEAF.

BOBBY JONES ENTITLED TO HOUSE GOLF BUILT

MUCH deploring has started in England because Bobby Jones, greatest of golfers, accepted a $50,000 house that his excited fellow citizens of Atlanta handed him. Bobby, being an amateur, is not supposed to pick up little trifles like mansions and limousines, according to the sport purists across the well known ocean.

Nick Flatley

Which is just a lot of applesauce. Young Mister Jones is the big sport figure of the world. He has plucked off every large golf title there is in the past three years. He made two invasions of Britain, and came home with the cups emblematic of victory.

The British would probably give Bobby another house, to park with his new one, if he would promise never to go back after further laurels. They take their golf very seriously and while Bobby was hailed as a wonder, he left a deeply dug path of chagrin in his tour of St. Andrews.

Young Mister Jones gave every one of the millions of sport loving Americans a real kick when he won the English titles. It is more or less American to return some sort of gift for any sustained flock of thrills. Nothing professional about it.

The citizens of Atlanta are naturally wonderfully proud of their links champion, so why shouldn't they give him a castle to live in, if they feel that way about it.

This is an age where the general public likes to throw rocks at champions. The gang cheers the hero as he fights his way to the crest, and then grows eager to see him toppled off.

Jack Dempsey gives you the best reflection of the spirit. He was never popular when he held the title. But he became an idol as soon as Tunney took his crown. And he's more of a public darling than ever since he assimilated Gene's second title pang.

Jones is one champion who seems to hold the heights and great favor, at the same time. But the English plaint shows that some folks would like to have him pushed off.

SAMMY MANDELL TRAINS ON ICE CREAM

SAMMY MANDELL, lightweight champion, who shows in our midst Friday evening, is quite an interesting young man. He was awarded his title in the popular synthetic manner, but, nevertheless, he's a real boxer and good fighter.

He has been through some 150 fights and his classic countenance shows no bumps or scars. His face is good enough for the movies on its own, although his championship has helped him to get a shot at that profitable business. He starts on the screen stuff next month.

Mandell is one of the rare athletes who trains on ice cream and other delectable stuff that most sport performers have to abandon. Sammy goes for the cones and that sort of thing with great regularity, and the procedure does him good apparently. He doesn't put on weight, and has no trouble keeping down around the light limit.

Mike Gibbons, who was some fighter in his day, was an ice cream hound also, and he went along for many years. The greatest trainer of them all, though, was Aurelio Herrera, the famous Mexican. He fitted himself with big black cigars and straight whiskey, and while he lasted was a truly great warrior. But he didn't last extra long.

3 TEAMS TIE IN BIKE RACE

New York, Dec. 8 (I N S).—Three teams—Spencer and Winer, Landa and Van Nek and Belloni and Debaets—were tied for first place in the six-day bike race, with the McNamara-Grimmett combination only one lap behind them. The latter team stole seven laps in getting back into the race and the Spencer-Winer five.

Perri and Hill tired and lost confidence in their speeding early in the evening, but Zuccherato's ground. Bello and Zuccherato, who do most of their speeding when purses are offered for sprints lead in points with 151.

At 3 o'clock the leaders had pedaled 1,146 miles 9 laps, as against the record of 1,071 miles 8 laps.

Risko Winner Over Phil Scott

Cleveland, O., Dec 8 (A P.)—Johnny Risko, Cleveland heavyweight, gave Gene Tunney's heavyweight crown today was a step nearer upon his return to the process of elimination by winning a unanimous decision in the ten round semi-windup bout here last night over Phil Scott, British heavyweight champion. They fought in Public Hall here before a capacity crowd of 12,000 spectators.

Risko forced all the fighting and scored two knockdowns to win Patsy Hafey's decision.

Scott plans to return at once to England without engaging in any more fights but to return to America next Spring for a stay of several years, he said last night.

Maroons Win

Winnipeg, Man., Dec. 8 (A.P.).—A brilliant comeback after an defeats featured the play of the Winnipeg Maroons when they defeated the Pittsburgh team, 4 to 1.

NED M'GUIRE TO MEET M'LEOD

George McLeod has finished his training and believes he is in the best shape of his career for his finish match with Ned McGuire at the Grand Opera House tonight.

The match tonight means a lot to McLeod. His work here with Al Bruchi, Kaplan and Malcewicz was a revelation to the fans. However they were wondering whether these matches were merely a flash in the pan or whether the Scotch-Irish wrestler has the goods to go through a tough series of matches.

Bull Komar, Lithuanian Tiger looks in good shape for his match with Karl Vogel. Vogel defeated Nino Darnoldi in New York Monday night in just two minutes and 35 seconds which goes to show that the big German is about in top form. Komar hopes to be able to defeat Vogel and force Stan Stasiak to meet him here in a finish match.

Abbey Brown, the second edition of George Hackenschmidt, will try six falls over Paul Seidl, British heavyweight champion. They fought in Public Hall here before a capacity crowd of 12,000 spectators.

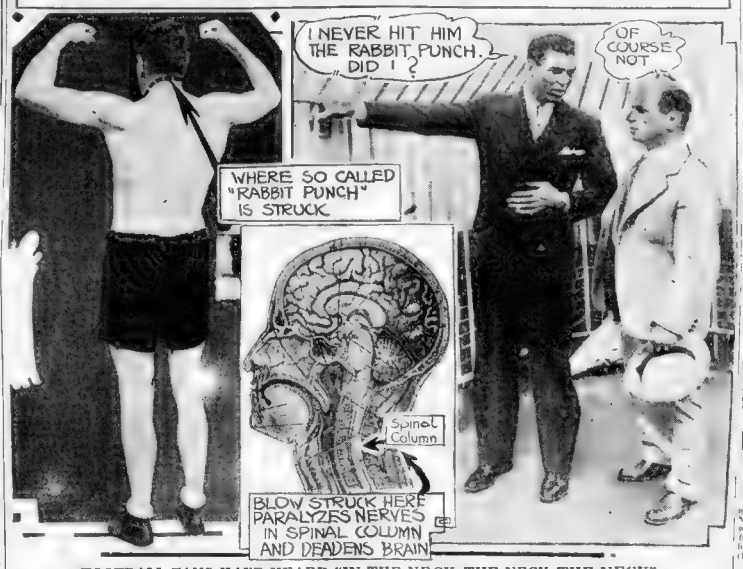
A Scholarship Better Than a Pay Envelope

Philadelphia, Dec. 8 (A.P.).—Bill Wood, football coach at Wesleyan University, Middletown, Ct., is in favor of athletic scholarships.

Wood, a former star athlete at Penn State, where such scholarships recently were abolished, came here to address the Philadelphia Wesleyan alumni of Wesleyan.

"If an athlete has developed his body through sport while in high school," he said, "then it is fitting and proper that this youth should be given an opportunity to develop his mind at college."

PUBLIC NECKING PARTY CONTROVERSY



FOOTBALL FANS HAVE HEARD "IN THE NECK, THE NECK, THE NECK"

But it enters the present expose of the Tunney-Dempsey fight in which Tiger Jack claims he never used the rabbit punch on the champion. In these pictures, using Tunney's back pose as a model, Dempsey is pointing out the well known vulnerable spot to Jerry the Greek, Jack's official trainer and "Yes" man who quite properly answers "of course not." It would be good news if Jerry answered "yes." In the cross section diagram of the human head in which the artist depicts the sensitive spot on the spinal column he pays a splendid tribute to Gene and Jack when he refers to the brain. The artist might be nonplussed if his subject were one of those huskies glutting New York's heavyweight market.

DEMPSEY DENIES HE USED 'RABBIT' PUNCH

By JACK DEMPSEY.

This [illegible] written by Jack Dempsey to [illegible] story of the "long count" and other [illegible] Tunney in Chicago last Sep[illegible]

In all the years I have been part of the ring game, I've never been given a worse deal throughout, than was accorded to me by Dave Barry, the referee in Chicago.

The world knows that Barry accorded Tunney a long count and [illegible] Tunney [illegible] title as champion of the world [illegible] things happened during that fight which were [illegible] Barry [illegible] helper—which the [illegible] record.

FOUR RED SOX PLAYERS ARE SENT DOWN

Four more Red Sox players have played their last baseball game in Boston at least for some months to come, it was definitely decided, after the waivers [illegible] Manager Bill Carrigan allowed for them to make good.

The four players who have been sent to the Mobile Club of the Southern Association are Walter Shaner, outfielder, Elmer Escott [illegible] Billy Moore, catcher, and Tony Welzer, pitcher.

The quartet were shipped to Mobile in a trade which will bring to the Sox two pitchers and an outfielder of whom [illegible] are held out by Bob Quinn, owner of the team.

Danny Williams, who batted .350 last year and who was hardly given a fair trial in his last appearance with the Sox, is one of the players involved in the [illegible]

Merle Settlemire, a southpaw who won 11 games and lost 11 last year, and Edward Morris, right hand pitcher who won 16 and lost 11 games, are the other players in the deal. They [illegible] have proved successful in spite of the fact that they were with a sixth place team.

Chick Meehan Will Make Decision Today

New York, Dec 8 (I N S).—John (Chick) Meehan, New York University football coach, is expected to announce this today whether he will reconsider his expressed intention of accepting a position at another university.

Addressing a body of 200 professors, undergraduates and alumni last night, Meehan said he was willing to arbitrate. He recently asserted that the university board of athletic control refused to co-operate with him.

Meanwhile, student demonstrations for the coach continue.

Pro Hockey Rules Need Vital Changes

By BILL GRIMES.

Unless drastic changes are affected in the rules, under which the National, the Canadian Professional and the Canadian American Leagues are playing, hockey is going to lose much of its popularity.

Judging from what has transpired in these [illegible] this season, the new rules, in effect for the first time, have not met with success or the approval of the fans in this country or Canada.

The intentions of the rules committee were to make such changes as would lead to more scoring, speed up and open up the game.

Therefore, after a bitter and lengthy controversy, the committee voted to adopt the new Rules [illegible] which are two inches wider than the present ones, to allow for [illegible] passing in the defending, as well as the centre zone and permit [illegible] the dragging of the puck, with the skate, in zones other than the attacking one.

Also, a rule was passed which permitted the goal tenders from wearing pads of more than ten inches in width.

On paper, the changes appeared to be along the proper lines to arrive at the desired conditions, more scoring, faster hockey, and less whistles. But on the ice, the cardinal purpose of the changes—more scoring—has been defeated.

SCANT SCORING NOW.

But, scoring has been reduced to a minimum. The rule committee was of the opinion that [illegible] passes in the defending zone would make it possible for a team [illegible] to get underway with a good jump and catch the opposing team with two or three men down the ice.

Such a condition has [illegible] to develop. Immediately a team [illegible] the puck in its attacking zone, the players, without making any [illegible] effort to retrieve the puck, skate back to their own blue line and form a six man defense.

When the attack crosses the second blue line, it is confronted by a massed defense of [illegible] packed in a sixty foot area.

9 TIE GAMES SO FAR.

The result has been that in the seventy-eight games played in the National Hockey League there [illegible] been [illegible] with the teams on even terms. Moreover, the N H L. teams have an average of less than two goals per game, having scored only 140 times.

Although the pride of the professional colons might not allow them to take such a step, the adoption of the Ontario Hockey Association rules would meet with better success than those now in vogue.

The O. H. A. rules are practically the same as the N. H. L., except that the amateurs do not recognize the centre zone. The blue lines are sixty feet out from the nets, and forward passing and kicking, are permitted in these zones by defending teams, but once a team crosses its blue line passes must be lateral, although it is permissible to skate a player unaided.

Under the O. H. A. rules, an attacking team can afford to gamble to the extent of trying to recover the puck in the enemy's zone, as set themselves on their opponent's blue line to break up the new attack. Such a condition does not develop under the present N. H. L. rules for it is possible with a couple of clever passes to advance the puck two-thirds of the distance to the cage.

New York, Dec. 8 (A.P.).—Baseball teams in the not so distant future will do all their traveling by airplane, predicts Manager John J. McGraw of the Giants.

"It is the safest method of travel there is," said McGraw, who has done considerable globe trotting. "I have been up 40 or 50 times. I always fly from Key West to Havana. I shall be perfectly willing to transport my team by airplane as soon as they perfect ships with four or six motors. I don't have so much confidence in single motored planes."

McGraw did not indicate how his players felt about the idea.

CONFERENCES IN SPLIT ON BARGAIN PLAN

[illegible] Dec. 8 (A P)—Plans for doubleheader varsity football next Fall have developed a decided split of opinion in Western Conference ranks.

As matters stood today, four of the Big Ten are ready to put two teams into competition in 1928. In addition to Michigan, which took the initiative in this novel move, Wisconsin, Iowa and Illinois have decided to give the scheme a tryout.

Taking the first actual step to make the plan effective, Wisconsin announced that it scheduled a double-header for October 13, when Badger eleven will play North Dakota State and Carroll College in the afternoon and Michigan at night.

The Badgers also forwarded a proposal to Michigan for a game which the Wolverine junior varsity at Madison, October 22, the date on which the first varsity tilts are scheduled to start. Amos Alonzo Stagg of the College of Chicago, Purdue and Northwestern conference teams have declared that they are not strongly in opposition to the plan.

Iowa, in arranging games for a second team, intended it would [illegible] the [illegible] only to the extent [illegible] a minor attraction on Saturday when the big team is on foreign fields. Iowa takes a similar view.

Bell said the heads of both schools will be present when the deal for a game between the two elevens [illegible] is completed. In 1928 in addition to Lou Young, head coach of the Red and Blue, who also attended the luncheon, made no mention of the possibility of a game with the fighting Irish.

DRAFT LAW CHANGE IS PROPOSED

Landis Lauds Minor Magnates on Their Fine Sportsmanship and Civic Pride

Dallas, Tex., Dec. 8 (A.P.)—Proposed revision of the major-minor draft agreement was the outstanding question remaining before the National Professional Baseball Association at the final sessions of its convention here today.

Discussion of the draft rules yesterday brought threats from some minor club owners to terminate the agreement. Arguments finally centered on how long the agreement made seven years ago was intended to run.

One faction contended it was supposed to terminate this year, while another group quoted a section of the pact indicating it was to remain in effect during the life of Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball.

Under the present agreement, minor clubs can be forced to sell promising players, under certain conditions to the majors or clubs of higher classification.

Several minor leagues never have accepted the draft pact, including the Pacific Coast League, the American Association and the International League. Due to a swelling of purses, however, these circuits have been forced to accept it, from the majors under draft conditions.

The draft problem finally was submitted to a committee for discussion and presentation today in the form of a resolution. Questions of salary limitation, options and bonuses also precipitated long discussions.

Commissioner Landis, at the annual banquet last night, lauded the organization for its policy of maintaining clubs in several cities where no profits were derived. Such clubs, he said, were usually maintained as a matter of civic pride and offered the best possible atmosphere and environment for young players.

Princeton Sextet to Play 10 Games

Princeton, N. J., Dec. 8—Prince[illegible] hockey sextet will play ten games during the coming season according to the announcement today of the Princeton Athletic Association. The schedule is one of the most a Tiger hockey team has faced in many years due to the absence of the usual Canadian trip.

The Tigers will open their season against the New York Athletic Club next week in the Hobey Baker rink here. Five games will be played during the holidays, when the Tigers meet the University of Toronto at Madison Square Garden in New York. The proceeds of the game will be given to charity.

The schedule:

December 16, New York Athletic Club, at Princeton; 20, N. Y. Hockey Club, at Princeton; 23, Toronto, at New York.

MR. BOSTON By Jack Conway

"JOCK MALONE has already opened fire," said Mr. Boston as he breezed into the Sporting Department today. "I have received a flock of telegrams from the St. Paul marvel in which he outlines just what he is going to do when he gets into action against Al Mello in a ten round six-ounce bout at Boston A. A. show at the New Boston Arena on next Monday night.

"Malone is the only fighter who is big enough, as well as the average pugilistic hound a 30 caliber bullet and then wins the winner.

"Malone's star publicity stunt was when he jumped [illegible] town he dee into Boston harbor. Ye see, lovely, Jock [illegible] hop into the harbor if he lost to Louis Mosier, Lenny, or Harry Greb, particularly hard sock for Malone as [illegible] beat an Englishman never could beat him. And Moody happened to be English.

"Which isn't tipping you on Malone's present state of mind.

"Remember my fight with George Ward?" queried Malone. "Well, Ward was one of those cocky western mugs who thought he could hand a good Irish middleweight a whalacking. And Ward is Irish himself, but that is neither here nor in one of those beer joints in Chicago. The point is that Ward thought he could give me a pasting.

"Naturally I couldn't sit back and tell him to wreck me. Not by a million miles. I knew that all he had was that touch left of his. It may have been good enough to sideswipe fellows like Eddie Shevlin and Mickey Walker, but I never worried about a left hand as I have a pretty fair left hand myself.

"I decided that at the most Ward could only tickle me with his left. So I paraded right in and knocked him cold in three rounds. I hung him up on the second rope so that the jury could get a good squint at him.

"I NOW ask who is this fellow Mello? Where does he bury his dead? I understand he is a youngster from one of your New England mill towns. If I'm correct, you had better tip Mello to look up the old Jock Hoff does it after I get through with him. Morgan Jones, [illegible] Todd, top defunct English middleweight champ.

"Just such a tough guy as Todd was I'm looking for. Tell Mello to whisper something into your ear. After I deal him I'm looking better than at any time during my career.

"During the past month I have worked [illegible] been fast enough for Jones and Todd. I [illegible] Mike Rosenberg, Wall[illegible] Lee and Jimmy Delaney. Those were young men I should say. I [illegible] can't beat Mello, so you see I should have [illegible] Mello on his way back to the mill."

"MALONE'S confidence is shared by many keen followers of the fistic racket who believe that a good little man cannot beat a big one. The main. Malone will carry a six pound weight advantage at ringside. This weight margin will be supported by a world of [illegible] lightest boxers who ever pulled on a padded glove. He can absorb and deal punishment with either mitt.

"It is likely that Malone will go to the post a favorite. Many [illegible] Mello is sawing wood, as it were, and [illegible] a knockout within five rounds. Mello [illegible] Malone, but [illegible] to land his wallop on the St. Paul [illegible]."

PASSING THE PUCK

By Bill Grimes

William S. Haddock of Pittsburgh plans to again handle the United States Olympic hockey team. In 1924, Haddock took the U. S. team to Chamonix. Had the United States won that championship a scandal would have developed. Now Haddock is back on the job.

According to Haddock's plans, teams desirous of entering the Olympic tryouts must first send an entrance fee of $1,700, then pay their own expenses to Lake Placid, where the eliminations games will be played during the first week in January. Haddock has invited ten Boston teams, with the necessary funds, of course, to enter.

There is but one amateur team here, the University Club, which is booked to play two games with the Toronto Grads, who will be Canada's representative at Amsterdam, during the time set by Haddock for the Chicago benefit. Therefore, it is doubtful if the United States' entry in the coming Olympics will be of sufficient strength to warrent representation.

Why should the University Club, which is the outstanding amateur club in this country be obliged to go to the trouble and expense of a trip to Chicago? It would cost at least $7,000 to send the University Club to the Windy City. Boston is the logical site for any Olympic hockey try out and there is little chance of the Club [illegible] once affair interesting the University Club.

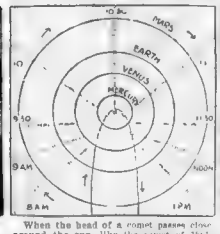
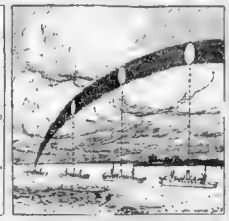
The Story of the Stars (How Comets Are Formed) By Garrett P. Serviss

Nearly all the substance of a comet is in its head, or nucleus. When it approaches the sun the head begins to expand into fiery billows, which are swept back to form the tail as it races with amazing speed across the heavens.

The shape and length of the tail depend upon the atomic constitution of the comet. Hydrogen, being the lightest substance, makes long straight tails. Curved tails indicate the presence of substances of greater atomic weight.



When the head of a comet passes close around the sun, like the comet of 1861, the tail appears to sweep around across the orbits of the planets with great speed. The sun is indicated in the center of the above diagram and the circles show the orbits.



It cannot be the same tail all the time, although it appears continuous, like the plume of smoke that rises from a steamer, and seems, from different points of view, as shown in dotted lines, drawn out in a different line on the sky.

But Georgie did not even look surprised. Her voice was very gentle.

"Did you? . . . Yes, Ernest is back again."

Final Bid: 4 S. Played by West

South is the dealer. What is the proper bidding and play?

In the next issue Mr. Whitehead will explain the salient points in the bidding and play of the above hand. Fill out your own chart and compare it with his method.

These hands must not be hid or played. "Double Dummy" hands, though an four hands were exposed.

Salient Points of the Bidding

South bids his Major suit, Hearts, in preference to No Trump, and West bids his spade in preference to his lower Minor suit, Clubs. North bids too weak for a first round response to his partner's Hearts. East guesses, correctly, that a partner's Spades bid. On the second round, South, unmasked in Hearts by his partner, bid a No Trump over North's Spades advance. Still, this one No Trump, West would have had a bad time. North now assists his partner's Heart bid, feeling such with a very strong hand when from North's holding, should be played at Hearts. East bids two spades for West, preferring the Spades because of greater length in that suit, and therefore odds to Spades. South, encouraged by North's belated assist, bids three Hearts, reading North as one of Hearts and wishing to go no. West is tempted to bid three spades, a sacrifice from one of the South's points, but if No Trump which succeed at least one, probably two tricks. In the act West's Pass was influenced also by his uncertainty as to what East's assist was meant, or intended to show his preference as between Spades and Clubs. Now passing, East gives the second Spade assist. South now bids four Hearts, which, had doubles West, however, takes out the double with four Spades which South, not doubles and the point is scored West at four Spades doubled.

Salient Points of the Play

Trick 1. Although possessing certain that South had four of Hearts and that West four of Spades holds none, South tries to force but plays the Jack instead of a lower card.

Trick 4. Without compensating gain, Declarer refuses to ruff.

Trick 5. South must combine with the King of Hearts. A low lead of Hearts would be passed up to Dummy's Queen. A diamond lead would be useful. A trump lead would be ineffective since because, ruffing South with the Queen-Jack, would have to play upon the card led. The King of Heart lead is best. If East takes up the Queen of Diamonds, the at least, if trumped returns the ace trump holding Declarer must lose two more tricks, one Heart and one Diamond.

Trick 6. South must continue with the Ace of Hearts. A low lead of Hearts would be passed up to Dummy's Queen. A diamond lead would be useful. A trump lead would be ineffective since because, ruffing South with the Queen-Jack, would have to play upon the card led. The King of Heart lead is best. If East takes up the Queen of Diamonds, the at least, if trumped returns the ace trump holding Declarer must lose two more tricks, one Heart and one Diamond.

Trick 10. South must lead away from the trump holding in order to prevent East from making a trump trick. Declarer must lose two more tricks, one Heart and one Diamond.

A PLEA THAT GOES STRAIGHT TO MISTER FRISHY'S HEART

Famous portrait, "Congressman Frishy in His Prime," which he has offered to Queen Marie of Rumania if she will let bygones be bygones.

Dear Mr. Frishy: In addition to the fearless stand you are taking in the drive to do your Christmas shopping early—why not urge your loyal followers to SEND their Christmas presents early. This would eliminate the dissatisfaction caused by trying to exchange gifts around January 1st, and having a shop-worn, pickled over mess from which to make your selection.

If you will do this, Mr. Frishy, I promise to use my influence (and don't forget, that I am chairwoman of our Tuesday Forenoon Club "to swing the club in an entire body for you on election day. That is, I can swing the better element. But there are some of those women who won't listen to reason, and just to spite me would vote for McKinley or someone.

"We've got enough money. If we get any more we will have to spend our time counting it—andthere's no fun in that."—John Emerson.

Secretary Wilbur should replace Admiral Magruder with a good Hollywood yes man.

By the way, Secretary Wilbur hails from Los Angeles. Do you suppose he is an admirer of Cecil De Mille?

AFTER PERIOD OF TORTURE, MAN FINDS RELIEF FROM ITCHING

Skin now entirely healed

Charlestown (Boston), Mass., Dec. 16—"Last June I had an itching irritation on the back, principally between the shoulders, and also on the back of my hands, extending to the shoulders. The skin was apparently clear of any disorder, but the itching was intense. After a vigorous rubbing with a Turkish towel there would appear two spots, about an inch apart, which bled from the effect of the rubbing. I used Bay Rum and other lotions before I tried your Resinol Ointment. At bedtime my back received a thorough washing with Resinol Soap and a very generous application of Ointment, after which I would rest quite comfortably until about two or three in the morning, when I received another application. A third upon arising would be enough to make me feel at ease during the day. Thanks to the above treatment, the trouble is now entirely healed." (Signed) John Jos. W. Hutchinson, 3 Dorchel Place.

STOP BAD BREATH

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

Olive Tablets bring no griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after 20 years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take nightly for a week and note the effect. 15c, 30c, 60c. All Druggists.

THE WITTY SAYINGS OF MEDBURY

By JOHN P. MEDBURY

A BROOKLYN woman who jilted her sweetheart in 1877 has spent the last fifty years trying to rekindle his spark of love, but so far she hasn't been much of an ignition expert.

HE used to be a live wire until she short-circuited him.

MANY a high pressure lover has had his power turned off.

IT only takes one woman to change from positive to negative.

YOU'RE plus today and minus tomorrow.

YOU can be a flaming youth in the morning and smoldering in the afternoon.

YOU may be quick as a flash, but every pretty girl is a lightning arrester.

IT doesn't take her long to cut down you voltage.

EVERY sofa is a shock absorber.

A WOMAN should never experiment with the love of a sweetheart. You can't burn an old flame at both ends.

ONE woman called her husband the light of her life because he went out so much.

HE got highly charged three times a week and she couldn't keep him at Ohm.

THE poor fellow finally singed his mustache spooning with a red hot mamma.

HER affection was 103 in the shade.

BUT he was a careful man and never wore a celluloid collar when he went necking.

WIVES should remember that if a husband can't find a spark of love at home, he's apt to go to some other power house for it.

THE MEDITATIONS OF A WIFE

By HELEN ROWLAND.

EVERYTHING comes cut, dried and canned, these days, from home-cooking and love-making to your Christmas shopping.

* * *

Once, Christmas shopping was the terror and tragedy of a man's life. The problem of how to find something to give "HER," which would show a lot of personal thought, breathe devotion and tender significance, and at the same time not look like a declaration or be objectable in a breach-of-promise suit, faced a man in all its grimness, every December.

* * *

Now, all that is changed! No more staggering blindly and dizzily through department stores, like a lost soul, dodging umbrellas, hunting through book shops or waiting behind the crowd at jewelry counters.

* * *

All he has to do, is to pick p the telephone receiver and breathe a number softly into the florist's ear; and behold, a box of her favorite flowers will reach her any-where from Florida to California.

Or, he can just trip across to the telegraph office, pick out another number, and lo, a beautifully expressed telegram will brighten her Christmas morning!

Or he can merely glance over a list from the gift-shop, the hosiery shop, the furrier's or the jeweler's, mark off the thing that strikes his fancy, and all the rest will be done for him, even to the fancy tissue paper and the bunch of holly in the ribbons.

Even if there are half a dozen "Hers" in his life, the same numbers and duplicate orders will serve for all of them, provided no two of them live in the same apartment house.

* * *

All your sentiment and thrills ready-made and put up in beautiful de luxe packages! And you can go to bed on Christmas Eve with a clear conscience and an easy mind.

* * *

What average man could possibly think up anything more appropriate, more discreet, more significant than those devised by a department store expert, with a lively imagination, a romantic heart and a thorough knowledge of feminine complexes and inhibitions?

* * *

If a man can't think of a girl long enough to look over a catalogue or telephone a florist, then he doesn't think of her at all! And that's that!

* * *

And yet—and yet—do you remember the sweet old days, when he slunkered around trying to find just the thing you'd like, and finally showed up on Christmas morning with a little gold heart and a copy of your favorite poet and a bunch of violets and a really CONVINCING kiss?

Somehow, canned things DON'T have the same flavor—do they?

RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

SOMETIMES the world's a cruel place, unfriendly as can be; again it shows another face, when some one comes to tea. It's strange how such a little thing can wholly change the day, a friend's sweet smile makes pulses sing, drives fret and care away. Sometimes the hours go lagging by, no mirth, no jollity; the moth's plaw, fishing poems be sigh till some one comes to tea. When some one comes to tea the fire glows very bright and red, the dancing flames leap higher, higher, to shine on jam and bread. The silver teapot's gleaming spout glows rosy-hued and bright, and when the amber tea pours out it takes a golden light. The world is such a queer old place; good? bad? Men can't agree, but still it turns a kindly face when some one comes to tea.

Face Became Inflamed And Sore Cuticura Healed

"A few years ago my face broke out with a rash. I did not pay much attention to it at first. Finally the rash started to spread, and itched and burned so that I could hardly stand it. Scratching caused it to become inflamed and sore, and several nights I could not sleep at all on account of the irritation.

"A neighbor advised me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I purchased some. The first week I used them I could see an improvement, and I was completely healed after using about two cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment." (Signed) Mrs. Stanley Gray, 4 Hillside Ave., Montpelier, Vt., Jan. 10, 1927.

Daily use of Cuticura Soap, with touches of Cuticura Ointment as required, keeps the skin fresh, smooth and clear. Cuticura Talcum is an ideal toilet powder.

Sold throughout the world. Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address: Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. X, Malden, Mass. Cuticura Shaving Stick 25c.

STARS APPEAR AT LIDO-VENICE

Lido-Venice has successfully ushered in its new policy of entertainment "in the New York manner" with a group of New York night club stars who were presented to the brightest group of diners and dancers in Boston by Wally Davis, formerly of the "Greenwich Village Follies" and "Vanities," who came direct from the Strand Roof as host as master of ceremonies. The entertainment started at 7:15 and continued through until 3 a.m., the new closing hour.

Connie Almy headed the list of de luxe entertainers. Her dancing and singing contained the same dash and vivacity that made her such a favorite at the "Lido Club," Miami, George White's "Scandals" and Texas Guinan's Club.

Alexis Ruloff and Joan Elton whose striking success with the Russian Imperial Ballet represent the highest type of aesthetic dancers, offering every conception type of grace and agility and a generous repertoire that shows the influence of the national dances of Europe.

Virginia Pearson charms with her beauty and then surprises with her novelty dancing.

Emilie Dee-Kende is a song and dance lady from the Club Madrid of Philadelphia, Chicago and Detroit in her dancing and dancing in her singing.

Penny Reed and Gold are three syncopating songsters who have the ability to put something of their own individual "twist" into the most popular modern songs.

Henry Kalis, conductor the original Lido-Venice Orchestra, furnishes a discreet and polished background for the performers.

NATIONAL POLICIES OF THE HEARST NEWSPAPERS

1. An agreement of English-speaking peoples to preserve peace among themselves and promote the peace of the world.
2. A constitutional amendment to provide for the election of United States Senators in numbers proportionate to the population of each State, but no State to have less than two Senators. A reapportionment of Congressional representation immediately after every census, or in case of the failure of Congress so to act, to make the apportionment automatic at the end of the first Congressional session, the proportion of population for each representative in each case to be that of the existing Congress.
3. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defence.
4. Federal action to the limit of Federal Government powers to abolish illiteracy among the people of the United States, and the creation of a Secretary of Education.
5. Necessary measures to secure the election of Congress in November and its installation on the 1st of January following, and the inauguration of a President on the 1st of January immediately following his election in November.

Holiday Decorations

The Christmas Seal

The red and green Christmas Seals you buy at one cent apiece—and all should buy as many as they can—make just the right decoration for gift packages and holiday correspondence.

But that is not their only purpose.

The sale of these seals helps to support the good work of the Boston Tuberculosis Association, which maintains in Mattapan the Prendergast Preventorium for children, finds employment for TB patients able to work, teaches health education in public and parochial schools and, through its educational committee, renders similar service to adult groups in offices, shops and factories.

When the nation-wide fight on tuberculosis was organized in 1904 the death rate from TB in the United States was 200 for every 100,000 people; in Massachusetts, 240 for each 200,000.

Last year, the TB death rate in the nation had fallen to 87; in Massachusetts, to 80.

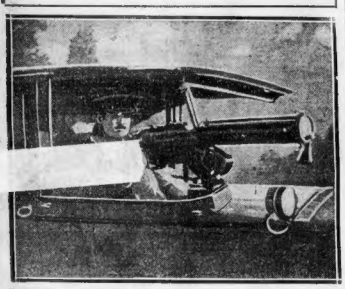
Not so very long ago the tubercular patient felt himself to be doomed; today, everyone knows the disease CAN be cured.

The fight is not over by any means. While the death rate for all classes is decreasing it is known that among young girls it is at a standstill if not, indeed, increasing.

Every purchase of Christmas Seals is a direct contribution to the health and happiness of the community.

Chang's Machine Gun

And His Boy Executioner



CHANG, VISITING, TAKES NO CHANCES

The cautious live long. And the fighting general of North China, the great Chang, who now proposes to make himself emperor of all the Chinese, uses the automobile that you see above when he calls on foreign ministers and, in fact, on his social calls generally. You notice that the fine automobile has an excellent modern machine gun conveniently mounted on it.

It is part of Chang's business to visit ministers of foreign countries in the "Legation Quarter" of Peking, and some other Chinese that don't like him might lie in wait for him. So he keeps ready for them at all times; therefore, he is ALIVE.

You see here, also, a picture of Chang's interesting and cheerful boy executioner.

That isn't his REAL sword with which he chops off heads that Chang tells him to chop off. The sword in the picture is of wood, and carried merely as a badge of office to show his authority. But even the wooden sword is enough to make men tremble, as this powerful Chinese boy with the smiling face, and the willingness to obey bloody orders, walks through the streets.

CHANG'S BOY EXECUTIONER

Chang himself intends to be the emperor of China. The fact that he used to be a brigand makes no difference. More than one brigand has been emperor of China. And some very eminently respectable emperors inheriting their thrones have been first-class brigands.

Christmas Is Coming -:- By Franklin Collier

HELP IN WEAKNESS ALSO VALUABLE

By DR. FRANK CRANE

WOODROW WILSON, in one of his letters, said: "You try and try with all the strength that is in you to help a person and you can't. Suddenly you find you can help in your weakness as you can't in your strength."

This is something that is hard to understand and yet it is a very important truth.

It is an error that many strong people make, to think that with the failure of their strength comes their failure to help the one they love.

Particularly is this the case between husband and wife. A wife will be estranged from her husband, separated by his business and his absorption in it. He is providing her with everything and doing all he can for her sake, yet, somehow, he fails to register with her. Suddenly he is taken sick or some calamity befalls him, and this calamity unlocks all her stores of affection. What he did not see when he was strong he is made to feel when he is weak. He has done more for the successful career of the marriage bark by his weakness than he did by his strength.

Often a man's failure in his work in life comes like a trumpet call to his mate and she develops qualities that otherwise would not have been seen.

One who is invariably strong and self-reliant is apt to get lonesome. The greatest compliment that you can pay any one is to be dependent on him.

People like to be of service. Many a woman who was happy when she washed and ironed and did the housework for her family is miserable when they become so rich that she does not need to do anything.

Every one likes to be of use in the world, our self-esteem and all our good qualities are brought out by seeing that we are of service.

No matter how gifted or handsome a person may be it is of no avail unless he is helping somebody. Weakness is a call to such a person and oftentimes it helps far more than strength.

WHAT HAVE YOU TO COMPLAIN ABOUT THESE DAYS?

WHEN you are ill or recovering from an injury, those who can go about to work and take care of their daily tasks, seem fortunate.

But as soon as you are able to work, and have struggled along for some time to make both ends meet you complain of having to work too hard.

If you can carry on your daily work without any physical discomfort or actual suffering, you should consider yourself fortunate.

The person who has a family to support, and a position that enables him to take care of them respectably, and maintain a place as a good citizen and promoter of his church, has no cause for complaint.

Thousands upon thousands of men today who are out of a job would count themselves fortunate if they were permitted to work hard.

There should be joy in your heart if you have a good position and enjoy good health.

Too have to work harder than some, but what of it, if you are physically capable?

Think a moment, have you much to complain about?

Boston Day by Day

JUST to keep his hand in, Joseph Ecker, director of the Elks' Glee Club of Boston, is calling for frequent rehearsals and appearances. The club wants to attend the Miami Elks' Convention next June, so is putting all its money into a fund for that trip. Frederick Coppinger, the club librarian and secretary, is all for the trip even if it does cause much effort on his part, sorting the music and keeping the records straight.

Mathew Callahan usually appears at glee club practice with a roll of music and a handful of smokes. He is the only man who can practice while smoking, for he is also club pianist. When the club meets for a performance Mathew Callahan has always been there, at least for the last two years.

Charles L. Burrill, past treasurer of the State and former member of the Governor's Council, never misses an opportunity of view animals. He is a lover of small animals and unusually fond of dogs. Mr. Burrill knows pointers, setters, and the various other kinds of canine. He is not only kind to his own pets, but is a generous supporter of the Animal Rescue League and similar animal welfare movements.

Some years ago when A. Bigelow Lawrence was in France he admired the beauty of a large, historical subject painting. He purchased it, but upon delivery here it was discovered the available wall space was too small. So he sold it to Augustus Goodwin. Mr. Goodwin, appreciative of its owner, who transferred it to one of do most good where many people could see it. In this manner it passed on to James J. Curry, restaurant owner, who transfered it to one of his eating houses.

A smaller painting, also purchased in France similarly, came into Mr. Curry's possession. Patrons rarely are acquainted with the history and significance of the two paintings.

For many years it has been the custom of various organizations to assist in some holiday charity by donating food or a dinner. Earl G. Manning, estate engineer, decided that while a dinner was a fine thing, many children would have more use for a pair of shoes. Consequently, going on the theory that a pair of shoes will outlast a dozen free dinners, Mr. Manning has arranged with Robert Kelso, secretary of the associated charities, to obtain the names of several hundred children to whom a Christmas present of a pair of shoes would be a real gift. Mr. Kelso will so arrange that there will be no duplications from other sources.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

I LOVE the world at Autumn.

Many prefer the Spring and Summer with their sheen and song, their dancing hours all wreathed with flowers and fruit.

But I love Fall—for then I think we see the soul of Earth.

Springtime is young. The seeds are newly sown. The fresh ploughed furrows gleam like firm young flesh. The sap is rushing in an eager tide. The buds and roots reach out impatiently. Springtime is like a laughing, hopeful child that does not know the storms that wait ahead.

And Summer's like a proud, successful king—laden with jewels, who lolls upon his throne, his lazy body steeping in the sun.

But Fall is like a weary worker who sits down to rest.

His body is no longer young and swift—his spirit is no longer fat and proud. There are ghosts in his eyes, deep furrows on his skin and jagged scars and searing stains of toil.

The Earth is tired when the Summer's done. Yet there is beauty, then, which Springtime never knows. And pride and peace, richer than Summer fruit.

The tired Earth reels.

The last light drops its tarnished, golden veil upon the spent brown fields.

There is a gentle dampness in the air, as though life dreamed through tears.

And from the soil there comes a bitter fragrance like old wine—rare wine, distilled from all the love and fury of the year.

The flowers wither and the birds depart.

Slowly the gay, bright toys of Spring are laid away.

The small sound cease.

Then stillness comes—stillness as though God walked abroad and took account of all His resting land.

I sit by an old friendly tree and I, too, rest. Rest and grow still with that brown earth of which I am a part. Over my spirit, also, falls the golden light, touching the stains and wrinkles and the cruel scars.

And I, too, wait for God to take account of me.

LORD, AS YOU PASS IN BLESSING OVER YOUR WIDE LAND, BLESS THIS, MY WEARY HEART, THAT IS YOUR GARDEN TOO.

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

Now let us think the eternal power,
convinc'd
That Heaven but tries our virtues by afflictions:
That oft the clouds which wraps the present hour,
Serves but to brighten all our future days!

Know when to speak; for many times it brings
Danger to give the best advice to kings.

Sweet are the uses of adversity;
Which, like the toad, ugly and venomous,
Wears yet a precious jewel in his head.

The wounded limb shrinks from the slightest touch; and a slight shadow alarms the nervous.

All your strength is in your union, All your danger is in discord.
